Library Plans Not In Jeopardy But Financing Method Altered

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Memorial Hall Library will be renovated as town officials have planned, but the sale-and-repurchase method for financing the $4.6 million project may be revised. Town Manager Kenneth Mahony told the selectmen Monday night.

Plans to build an addition that will nearly double the size of the library and improve the existing building are "not in jeopardy," the manager said. "The project is still alive — but it may have to go slightly differently than planned."

The selectmen have authorized the manager to sell the library to the Peabody development firm of Sargent Nichols. According to a plan approved by 1983 town meeting, Sargent Nichols would renovate the library to the town's specifications, then lease it to the town for 15 years. Andover would then buy back the building.

But the manager said this week that he is reconsidering that plan, and will not enter into any sale agreement with Sargent Nichols until he has determined that that is still the best way to go.

The sale-and-repurchase plan was designed to save Andover money, because private developers are allowed a federal tax credit for rehabilitating buildings; that credit is not available to cities and towns.

It now appears, however, that that tax credit may be much smaller than expected, the manager said this week. He explained that at this point, the tax credit may be only $100,000, compared to a $700,000 to $800,000 tax savings on the similar East Junior High project, which recently saw two former E.J.H. wings renovated into town and school offices.

The reason for that difference: the tax credit applies only to reconstruction and not to new construction, Mahony explained, and it now seems there might be less reconstruction work on the library than town officials had anticipated.

Selectman William Dalton asked whether the tax credit might be "so minimal" that the sale-and-repurchase plan was no longer worthwhile. The manager replied that cancelling that plan and undertaking the project as a straight town building project was one "possibility" to be considered.

However, selling the building (temporarily) would still offer the advantage of a stable lease payment each year, as opposed to the fluctuating debt service payments the town would face if it sold a bond to fund the construction.

Changing the debt service schedule could effect other major projects planned for future years as well, and "that is of grave concern to us," the manager said.

Rising construction costs are also "of major concern" at this time, Mahony added. There is "no firm construction price" on the project yet, but the contractor last week opened bids from sub-contractors (on plumbing, heating and electrical work, for example).

Mahony saw the numbers on those bids Monday morning, he said, and they were "a big shock to me."

And interest rates are climbing, too: The project was planned with an 8.5 percent rate on the bond, but the rate has now risen

Hotel Hearing Thursday

A group of Florida developers will make another appeal for ten waivers from the town's zoning by-laws at the Zoning Board of Appeals meeting set for Thursday, May 3, at 7:30 p.m., in the Memorial Hall Library meeting room.

Thomas Walsh's Ocean Properties, of Boca Raton, Fla., wants to construct a $25 million hotel and convention center complex on the banks of the Merrimack River, on Old River Road. But, in his first appearance before the zoning board last month, Walsh and his associates failed to give the board any specifics about the six variances and four special permits he needs to construct the six-story hotel on the 16-acre parcel.

Zoning Chairman Wesley Whitney told Walsh to be prepared to talk about each variance at this month's hearing. The zoning board continued last month's public hearing to Thursday, May 3, when they will continue to take input from any interested persons.

And, in a telephone interview after last month's meeting, Walsh told THE TOWNS-

Selectmen Deny License For College Party

The University of Lowell Activities Commission had hoped to hold its annual spring carnival in Andover tomorrow, but failed to win a one-day beer license from the Board of Selectmen Monday night, forcing the university to find an alternate site for the carnival.

The selectmen voted four-one against granting the license on the recommendation of the police department, which was concerned about security on the site; and the Board of Health, which was concerned about controlling the sale of food.

Lowell planned to host day-long festivities from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on the soccer field on the grounds of St. Francis Seminary, 459 River Road. Dean of Freshmen James S. Donohoe explained that from 2,000 to 4,500 students, faculty and staff members were expected to attend; the day's events would feature music, a cookout and beer served from a pavilion.

A detail of Andover police were to supplement campus security at the site where students would be bused from Lowell. But selectmen said they were concerned about safety, the potential for sale of beer to minors, and the possibility that many students from other schools would be attracted to the carnival.

Chairman Donn Byrne said the carnival would be "too risky, as far as I'm concerned, to the community." Only William Dalton voted in favor of granting the license, explaining, "I feel very uncomfortable ever voting against a good party."

Donohoe explained that there is no available site on the university campus suitable for the carnival, which has been held every spring since 1972. University officials thought of the seminary soccer field after plans to use another site this year fell through.

Dalton noted that the "last-minute" application complicated plans for safety and security, from Andover's point of view; he suggested that in the future, the university might begin working with town officials earlier.

Licenses, Permits Approved

The Bancroft School Parent-Teacher Organization will hold its annual road race on Sunday, June 3, with the selectmen's approval.

The board okayed that request during a regular meeting Monday night at town offices on Bartlet Street. Bancroft PTO runners will line up at the starting line at 1 p.m. June 3.

The selectmen approved another spring celebration by granting a one-day beer and wine license to the Townhouse Council of Merrimack College,

Selectmen May Go On Camera

Next fall, the people of Andover may be able to watch the Board of Selectmen in action from the comfort of their own homes.

Chairman Donn Byrne Monday night told the board some members of the Cable Advisory Committee would like to see selectmen's meetings broadcast over the local cable channel, beginning next fall. He asked board members to give the idea some consideration.

None of the selectmen seemed particularly excited about the prospect of which will host student festivities on the townhouse lawn from 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday, April 28.

Bay State Gas was granted permission to excavate at 11 Abbot St. and 58 Salem St. to renew gas services; in Brook Street to replace gas main and services; and in North Main Street at Punchard Avenue, 12 Locke St., Holt Road at Orchard Street, and 11 Shawsheen Road to make emergency repairs.

meeting before the cameras, and Town Manager Kenneth Mahony was decidedly cool about the idea. Selectman William Dalton suggested that it might be worthwhile to telecast occasional meetings of special interest, rather than every meeting. "I don't think we want to bore the Andover citizenry to death," he noted.

But if the selectmen's meetings are to be broadcast, Selectman Dalton already has one line ready for the closing credits: "Donn Byrne's wardrobe by the Andover Shop."

Hospice Needs Volunteers

The greatest gift one person can give to another is the gift of friendship. That is the gift that Hospice volunteers offer to patients and families facing life-threatening illness.

Hospice of Greater Lawrence is seeking interested persons to participate in their ten-week training program which begins May 1. In the training program volunteers will explore issues concerning death, develop communication and listening skills and learn to give practical help in caring for patients and families facing serious illness.

The number of families in need of volunteer services exceeds the number of available volunteers. The Hospice volunteer is an integral component to the philosophy of the Hospice movement.

Without the volunteer program the Hospice patient and family does not receive the support and care that is in Hospice care. As the Hospice program is more widely understood, more families are requesting Hospice services. The Hospice volunteer offers hope in affirmation of life and support for patients and families in facing death as a part of life.

For more information and to arrange for an interview, contact David Duncan, coordinator of volunteers, at Hospice. Any person who would like to participate in this volunteer program, but has already made plans for the ten-week period is still encouraged to call.

Newman Lecture Friday

You've seen him on television news, you've seen him on "Saturday Night Live," and now you're going to be able to see him in person at Merrimack College.

Television news correspondent Edwin Newman will be the speaker for the third and final performance of the Tri-College Celebrity Series on Friday, April 27, at 8 p.m. at Merrimack College's S. Peter Volpe Physical Education facility.

Newman recently announced his retirement as television correspondent for NBC-TV, but will continue with his numerous lecture circuit appearances, which will keep him in touch with the people and language that have comprised his career.

Whether offering network coverage of the Reagan assassination attempt or delivering a once-a-week essay on the "Today" show, Newman has reported on a wide range of topics in the field of broadcast journalism during his 28 years as an NBC news correspondent.

Newman has reported from 35 different countries, narrated documentaries ("Violence in America," for instance), anchored specials on late-breaking news events, covered seven sets of political conventions and four world's fairs. He has hosted the "Today" show many times and appeared often as a questioner on "Meet the Press." In 1975 he was granted the first exclusive interview ever given a journalist by the Emperor Japan and moderated the first Carter-Ford television debate in 1976.

Newman has earned a reputation as a watchdog of English usage. His two books on the subject, "Strictly Speaking: Will America be the Death of English?" and "A Civil Tongue," were national bestsellers. His comic novel is "Sunday Punch." He has published articles in many national magazines and in a number of British publications.

Newman has received an Overseas Press Club Award, New York Emmy awards for drama criticism and his TV interview series, "Speaking Freely."

The Tri-College Celebrity Series is co-sponsored by the alumni associations of Merrimack College in North Andover, Northern Essex Community College in Haverhill and Bradford College in Bradford.

Tickets can be obtained by calling the alumni offices at the three colleges.

WOMEN & PRE-NUPTIAL AGREEMENTS

If you are contemplating marriage or remarriage, you may be concerned that you will risk the eventual loss of some or all of your property or other assets in the event of a dissolution of your marriage by death or divorce. You may also be uneasy about raising these concerns with your prospective husband because you do not wish to seem unromantic or greedy. A properly negotiated and drafted pre-nuptial agreement can often address these very genuine concerns. The assistance of a lawyer in the negotiation and drafting process is essential if you wish your agreement to be valid and enforceable at some later time. Contact Judith L. Nathanson, whose practice concentrates in representing women in domestic relations.

Contest Winners Announced

Jennifer Loyall, a North Andover High School student, is the winner of Memorial Hall Library's contest to guess how many miles the staff walked in serving the public during National Library Week. Her winning entry of 432 miles was the closest to the actual mileage computed at 437.1 miles and entitled her to the first prize, a "Trivial Pursuit" game.

Accepted

Denise M. Cormier, 6 Shandel Circle, has been notified of her acceptance at New Hampshire College, Manchester, N.H. She will graduate from Cushing Academy, in Ashburnham, this spring. Denise will be a hotel and restaurant management major. She is the daughter of Yvon and Noella Cormier.

The second prize, a gift certificate to the Andover Bookstore, was awarded to Vicki Kubacki of Pilgrim Drive, Andover. Library coffee mugs went to Catherine Timmons and Adam Clark, both of Andover, for their third-place entries. Prizes were provided by the Friends of the Library.

To make the public aware of their efforts to provide the many services available at Memorial Hall Library, 19 full-time and 23 part-time staff participated by wearing pedometers during the week-long event.

Cohens In Jail For Heart Fund

Atty. Gerald M. Cohen, former state representative, of Andover and his family will be going to "jail" on Sunday, April 29. Their crime? Failure to pay bail for last year's event. And probable cause and failure to observe heart healthy habits.

It's all part of the fourth Annual Jail Bail at the Northshore Shopping Center in Peabody on Saturday, April 28, starting at 10 a.m. and Sunday, April 29, at 12 noon.

The Cohen family, who will be locked up in jail from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m., include Jerry Annette; Atty. Donna E. Cohen of Gilman, McLaughlin & Hanrahan, Boston; Gary B. Cohen, assistant media buyer for BBD&O Advertising Firm; Atty. Dana S. Cohen of Coopers and Lybrand, Boston, and his wife, Cindy, corporate safety for Wang Laboratories; and Grandparents Jack and Dorothy Becker of Peabody. They will be locked up until they raise their "bails" in the form of donations to the American Heart Association. All prisoners have use of a telephone to call their friends and colleagues to bail them out.

Also scheduled to be locked up are Nu Phi Kappa Fraternity Brothers from Merrimack College and other "good-hearted" residents.

Building Support Group From A Poolside Acquaintance

By Sue Aucella Deacon

It started at poolside last summer, when Linda Feinberg met a young woman who was watching her child play in the wading pool at a local health club. The mutual acquaintance who introduced Linda to the young mother said, "Would you believe she's a widow?"

Linda — who felt that was "a rather strange way to introduce someone" — learned that the young woman had been widowed a year earlier and was struggling to rebuild her life. "She felt extremely isolated. She felt so terribly different," Linda recalls.

The widow, who was in her early thirties, had tried joining a support group, but found its members were older people who did not understand her problems. "Very spontaneously, I said, 'I can help you with that. I'm a social worker, and I've run lots of groups,'" Linda says.

Young Widows and Widowers, Ltd. met for the first time last August at the Lawrence Savings Bank in Shawsheen Square, and has met there weekly ever since. It is, Linda says, a psychological support and social group for widows and widowers under 40, and it has helped 61 people from 22 communities; some members come from as far as Cambridge and Watertown. Linda believes it is the only group of its kind now meeting in Massachusetts.

Most group members are "shocked" when they walk into their first meeting and see perhaps 20 people there; many have never met another widow or widower their age, even if they have been widowed for years. The group helps them "realize that they are not alone," Linda says, "that lots of wonderful people have had this horrible thing happen to them."

Linda, a striking woman who is warm and intense, is married to Dr. Alec Feinberg, a physicist with Bell Labs in North Andover, and the mother of a three-year-old daughter, Marissa. The Feinbergs moved to Apple Blossom Road from Newton two years ago.

Linda stopped working in her field when her daughter was born, and had not planned to return to social work until Marissa was a bit older. But she has given herself wholeheartedly to Young Widows and Widowers for the past eight months. "When I started this, I had no idea what I was getting into," she says. "It's just blossomed."

Members of the group attend the two-hour weekly sessions as often as they like — most attend once or twice a month, but some come every week, and others attend only one of two meetings. The bank offers a "neutral setting," Linda notes, while the presence of social activities makes the group seem "less threatening" than a pure support group.

Among 40 active members, 34 are women and six are men; 34 are parents. Their spouses have died from cancer, heart attacks, automobile accidents, suicide. They are in different stages of mourning and recovery. Some join three weeks, others three years after a spouse's death. They come to the meetings looking for friendship, Linda says, for someone to talk to, and someone to listen.

The difficulties faced by a 35-year-old widow are very different from those faced by a 70-year-old widow. When the young woman Linda met by the pool attended a support group made up of older widows, one told her, "You have no right to be depressed. You and your husband were just children, you hardly knew each other. My husband and I were married 50 years — I feel like I've lost my right arm."

That is precisely what was most painful for the young widow. She was not lucky enough to share 50 years with her husband, to raise children with him, to see their plans fulfilled. "There is a theme of feeling cheated out of a long lifetime that runs through these meetings," Linda explains.

Children offer love, but they present many problems as well. The suddenly single parent must cope with her own grief and her children's grief at the same time. And she must raise her children alone.

It's very different from being divorced, Linda says. "It may be very difficult and painful for a divorced parent, but they made that choice, and that makes a difference." And an ex-husband is still a father, she points out, who may be providing child support or spending weekends with the children. A widow doesn't have that.

Children can complicate the transition into a single social life, too, something that can be tricky enough for men and women who "don't remember how to be single, how to date." They may also be uncertain of "what's expected of them. They don't know how long they should stay at home before venturing out socially, and when they do go out, they feel guilty."

A young widow or widower may be plagued by "a certain self-consciousness" as well. Friends suddenly don't want to mention their own husbands or wives anymore — you enter a room and everybody stops talking. Feeling so set apart from one's peers would damage anyone's self-esteem, Linda explains. "They want to be just like everybody else."

Perhaps the cruelest blow to a young widow or widower is that people who were friends disappear, shaken by their own fears about the death of someone their own age.

It's a reminder to all of us of the worst tragedies that can happen to people — it's very threatening to our own mortality. People will shut a young widow, not because of her, but because of their own attitudes toward death.

Faced with a 30-year-old widow, we may also feel guilt as a member of society, she notes. "If her husband died of cancer, we think we should have contributed more to cancer research. If he was killed by a drunken driver, we think we should have done more to get drunken drivers off the roads. If he was a suicide, we think we should have done more to help him. The issues get very complicated."

Even a widow's in-laws may avoid her because she is a reminder that their son has died, a reminder too painful for them to bear. "That happens very often, and it is especially difficult for children — they not only lose a parent, but they lose one set of grandparents, too. It's terribly sad."

The weekly support group brings young widows and widowers together and gives them the opportunity to "get to know a handful of strangers extremely well." Little time is wasted on polite small talk; members communicate "in a very intimate way. They're talking about their most sincere feelings. Someone can come to a meeting and feel connected — feel a part of the world."

Although "everybody cries once in a while at these meetings," Linda emphasizes that the tone of the sessions is "not morbid. These people are in a state of heightened sensitivity, to humor as well as other feelings, and some nights I feel I'm at a comedy show — everyone is laughing. It's wonderful."

The group breaks down into smaller groups to discuss a weekly topic, suggested by a member or by Linda, who leads a group. Topics may be relationships with in-laws, parting with a spouse's possessions, visiting the cemetery, goals for the future, and "everyone starts talking a blue streak."

Some meetings feature guest speakers, and Linda offers literature, a lending library, information on resources and "inspirational materials" (poetry, articles) to members.

And the group enjoys occasional social times together — a Christmas party for members and their children, a Sunday afternoon gathering (getting through lonely Sundays can be hard, Linda says), a restaurant outing.

When the group visited a Chinese restau-

Nursery Visits Hospital

West Parish Nursery School children visited Lawrence General Hospital last week as part of their study during Good Health Habits Week. There have been several field trips integrated into the nursery school curriculum this year.

During Autumn Nature Week, the children visited Apple Acres Orchard in Windham, N.H. Memorial Hall Library was included in favorite Story Week, while Nutrition Week was topped off with a visit to Kealey Farms. The children enjoyed a trip to the police and fire departments during Safety Week. Dinosaurs Week came alive after a visit to Acton's Children Discovery Museum.

Future field trips will include a trip to Lawrence Airport during Transportation Week and the children will have an opportunity for a nature walk in the cemetery during Spring Nature Week. The Sea and Its Creatures Week includes a beach trip and fine weather will be the best time for a tour of Rose Glen Dairy to see how ice cream is made.

West Parish Nursery School is a semi-cooperative, non-denominational school housed at West Parish Church on Reservation Road. Children meet Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Children enrolling must be four years old by September 1. Any information concerning the school or registration can be obtained from Mrs. Sandra Schuhl, 32 Beavine Road.

School Mural

Andover art teacher James Batchelder points out the Punchard Free School, now home of the town's municipal offices, on the mural off 22 of Andover's schools he created with Andover High art students. The mural traces the history of Andover's schools.

Art Project Research Indicates Times Change, Issues Stay Same

By Susan Rand

While researching an art project, a handful of Andover High School art students learned that the town's school committee is faced with the same problems tackled 200 years ago by their ancestors on the South and North Parish school district boards.

Their historical research laid the groundwork for a mural showing the evolution of architecture in Andover's schools that was recently unveiled at a School Committee meeting. The timeline, which when mounted will fill the entire back wall of the school committee meeting room in the new town municipal building, starts at 1701, when the first school was built in Andover, and runs to 1983, showing the addition of the Collins Center to the Andover High School. There are 22 schools depicted on the mural.

The project began in April of 1982 when six seniors at Andover High needed one more credit in order to graduate that spring. At the same time Doherty School art teacher Jim Batchelder discovered that there were a lot of bare walls at the Shawsheen School, where the school administrative offices were then located. He suggested to school Superintendent Kenneth Seifert that some portable artwork would brighten up the school's halls.

Batchelder became the advisor of a one-credit art course that began designing a historical mural for the school building. After his class of 1982 artists half completed the project, received their credits and graduated, Batchelder was assigned another eight students from the class of 1983 who also needed only one more credit in order to graduate. He soon put them to work on the mural.

The second student group finished the project last June and Batchelder has had the mural under wraps in his office ever since. He explained that he was waiting for the school committee to get settled in their new meeting room before presenting them with the finished product.

The April 10 school committee presentation featured a reading, prepared by Batchelder, of a school meeting agenda as it would have appeared in 1795. Batchelder with help from Scott Prussman and Donna Piazza, two of the students who worked on the mural, unveiled the timeline to the applause of those attending the meeting.

In researching the agenda for the meeting Batchelder said he found that school committees of the 1700's talked about the same things that today's committee members discuss.

"Things don't change very much," explained the art teacher. "Back then they talked about money, vandalism and over crowding too."

And school design was another controversial topic that Andover's ancestors debated. Building the Abbott Village School, in 1892, sparked the same heated debate about how a school should look as did the plans for the Bancroft School in 1969.

But one look at the timeline explains that schools have lost their upright, compact design in favor of a sprawling, low landscape, which Batchelder concedes isn't as architecturally attractive as the old buildings.

Today's schools are much larger than they were 200 years ago too. In fact Batchelder said his art classroom at Bancroft is larger than any of the one-room school houses that preceded it.

Andover's first school house, built when Andover and North Andover were still one town, was constructed in 1701 at Wilson's corner at what was the geographical center of the large town. The building was 20 feet long and only 16 feet wide and accommodated up to 40 students at the busy corner where Merrimack College and Thompson's Restaurant now stand. It was a grammar school which prepared the local Harvard-bound boys in the classics. Girls didn't attend school locally until around 1795, said

Batchelder.

Much of the information Batchelder amassed while working on the art project will appear in a book about the evolution of the schools in Andover. He is co-authoring the book with Bancroft kindergarten teacher Mary Kay Hervol. The book is an outgrowth of what Batchelder found when working on the timeline was a lack of information "in one central place" about the local schools.

The pair do not yet have a publisher for their work but Batchelder said a few publishers said they were interested in seeing the finished copy. Batchelder and Hervol will spend much of the summer completing the history project.

The oldest school still standing in Andover is the Bradlee School, built in 1889, which was recently turned into condominiums. Another old school will soon fall victim to a bulldozer explained Batchelder.

Two Are Named Merit Scholars

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Two Andover high school seniors have been honored for their academic achievements, and their potential for future success, with National Merit Scholarships, in the second of three groups of scholarship winners to be named this spring.

Kathryn L. Schwarz of Andover High School and Robert A. Yelle of Phillips Academy have each been awarded $1,000 scholarships, the National Merit Scholarship Corporation has announced.

The two Andover students are among 1,800 to receive $1,000 "national" scholarships, and among a total 5,500 high school seniors from across the nation who will receive National Merit Scholarships this spring.

National scholarships have been awarded to those students found to have "the most distinguished credentials," and "the greatest potential for success during and after college," according to the scholarship foundation.

More than a million students from secondary schools all over the country entered the National Merit competition by taking a qualifying test in 1982. The top scorers, 15,000 students from 50 states, were named Semifinalists last fall; of these, 13,500 met additional requirements to advance to Finalist standing.

Winners of the $1,000 national scholarships were chosen from among the Finalists in each state, based on academic records, leadership, contributions to the school and community, personal attributes, two sets of test scores and recommendations from school principals.

Andover's latest National Merit scholars

Kathryn E. Schwarz

Andover High School senior Kathryn Schwarz is the daughter of Susan and Wilfred Schwarz of 35 Lovejoy Road. She attended the Sanborn School and West Junior High, where she was a member of the Triple A Society (for students who achieved honors status all through junior high) and starred on the track team as well. As a ninth-grader, she set a school record for running the mile.

A musician, Kathryn says she has been "playing something since the fourth grade"; she now plays the bassoon, tuba and sousaphone, as part of the AHS marching band, concert band, jazz ensemble, orchestra, and woodwind quartet. She won a seat in the state District Band, auditioning along with students from the New England states last winter. Kathryn plans to continue with music "as a hobby."

A member of the National Honor Society and a Presidential Scholar nominee (a national distinction), she writes for the school newspaper, contributing articles about the band. She is also a member of the school Math League, participating in math competitions with students from other schools.

Although she enjoys creative writing, Kathryn counts natural science as her favorite academic subject, and she hopes to become a marine biologist. She plans to attend Harvard next fall.

In her free time, she likes to read, write, ski and swim — but with schoolwork.

music, and an after-school job as a page at Memorial Hall Library (where she has worked since her sophomore year). "there's not a whole heck of a lot of free time," Kathryn says. Homework sometimes has to wait until 10 p.m. "But I don't know what I'd do if I had a lot of free time," she adds. "It's hard in a way — but it's fun, too."

Robert A. Yelle

The son of Judith and Louis Yelle of 5 Shirley Road, Robert Yelle attended West Elementary School and West Junior High before enrolling at Phillips Academy. He is a member of the Cum Laude Society, a national honor society for private school students, and in his junior year he received the Wadsworth School Biology Prize.

Robert is interested in biology and chemistry, and hopes to make a career in biochemistry. He is particularly interested in genetic engineering. He plans to attend Harvard or Yale next fall.

He also enjoys studying German, "a fantastic language," and after participating in a national competition he has been awarded a four-week travel/study trip to Germany this summer by the American Association of Teachers of German. He belongs to the German Club at Phillips, and will perform a major role in an upcoming German play at the academy.

Robert enjoys music as well — "rock and roll, and all kinds of music" — and works as a disc jockey and news reporter for the academy's radio station, WPAA-FM 91.7. He can be heard on the air from 9 to 10 every Monday night.

For the past three years he has also been an active member of the Essex Chapter of DeMolay International, based in Methuen; he is master counselor of the chapter this year. And he has helped re-activate the academy's Outing Club this year as the club's co-president (he belonged to the club in previous years, but it was inactive last year).

However many projects he undertakes, Robert says, "School comes first. If there's time left over, then I schedule other activities." And he relaxes by reading, playing his guitar, listening to music, taking walks. "I always try to manage some time by myself when I don't have to do anything," he explains. "People don't always realize it, but that's important, too."

The scholarships awarded to Kathryn Schwarz and Robert Yelle come from unrestricted Merit Program funds, including grants from corporate and business organizations.

Earlier this month, four Andover students received corporate-sponsored four-year National Merit Scholarships. They were Kimberly Kupa of Andover High, and Scott Bertetti, Peter Lee and Kathryn Mulvey of Phillips Academy.

Next month, the National Merit foundation is scheduled to announce the recipients of college-sponsored four-year scholarships, the final major announcement of merit scholarship winners this year.

Studying In France

Hilary F. French, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alan French, 17 Moreland Road, Andover, and a sophomore, is participating in Dartmouth College's Foreign Study Program for French in Toulouse, France, this term.

Foreign Study Programs are designed to expand Dartmouth's curriculum into new areas of academic and cultural understanding. Such programs have existed at the college since 1958, when opportunities for intensive study of language, literature and other aspects of civilization were made available in France, Germany and Spain. Now Dartmouth has 18 Foreign Study Programs in 12 countries.

Foreign Study Programs are particularly appropriate to the Dartmouth Plan, a distinctive four-term, year-round system at the college which provides unprecedented flexibility in individual study patterns and encourages more students to take advantage of foreign study.

French is a 1982 graduate of Phillips Andover Academy where she was the captain of the cross country track team and a member of the skiing team.

Host Families Sought

Ninety English-speaking "French ambassadors" will spend four weeks with area families this summer. The "ambassadors," says Virginia Adams, coordinator for the non-profit Nacel Cultural Exchanges, are young people from France representing their family, home town and country, participating in a home-stay program designed to foster better international understanding and friendship.

The students, between 14 and 18 years old, come to the U.S. to experience the American way of life by living and sharing every-day activities of a family. Adams, whose own family has been part of Nacel for the past 11 years, explains, "The four-week involvement (June 20-July 28) is ideally suited to many families. The more relaxed summer pace allows for shared moments over an ice cream cone or inclusion in family vacation plans. Discovering the similarities and differences of the French and American cultures is a great learning experience for all."

Through the generosity of past host families, include the Peter Gavins, John Nelsons and other Andover families, more than 5,000 French boys and girls (1983) returned home with a greater understanding and appreciation of American warmth and hospitality.

Preparations are underway to crossmatch student and host family applications, taking into consideration special requests and interests. More host families are needed in order to process applicants in a timely manner. Adams encourages families with teenagers to become involved. All families are invited to apply as long as they can provide a French student with some contact with other teens.

All arriving students are fully insured, have pocket money and will be accompanied by chaperones who will also be placed with host families. Most have studied English from four to seven years and have prepared for the trip by attending orientation meetings.

If you would like more information, contact Adams at 279 Pleasant St., Reading, MA 01867, or the former host families mentioned above.

In 1910 President William H. Taft became the first president to open the baseball season by throwing out the first pitch.

'Best Of Jacob's Pillow' Due

The "Best of Jacob's Pillow," featuring the Elisa Monte Dance Company, will perform one night only, Saturday, May 19, at 8 p.m. at the new J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts, Shawsheen Road, Andover.

A presentation of Andover Endowment for the Arts, the "Best of Jacob's Pillow" presents the finest dance companies from across the country in a series of special presentations.

The Elisa Monte Dance Company is highlighted in the Pillow's spring concert tour. Selection of the company is a result of their outstanding performances during Jacob Pillow's 50th anniversary season.

Joining the Elisa Monte Dance Company at the Collins Center will be the New England Dance Theatre under the directorship of Susan Van Swearingen.

A relative newcomer regionally, the New England Dance Theatre is known for its innovative costumes, lighting and sets, not always found in the usually sparse setting most dance companies maintain. Their work has been called "vibrant" and "striking." A combination of forms and images which become an artist's graphic of dance.

Tickets for the presentation may be reserved by calling the Box Office at the center.

Two Plays At Center Cancelled

Two plays originally scheduled at the J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts, Andover, have been cancelled due to scheduling conflicts.

"The Miracle Worker" with Tatum O'Neal and "Grease" with Christopher Atkins will not be playing in Andover at this time.

"Certainly we are disappointed," said Glen A. Gulezian, Collins Center official, "but when you are dealing with these types of shows, with star personalities, everything is tentative until the actual performance."

"However, we are committed to offering the best in cultural entertainment at the Collins Center; and we will continue to try and schedule productions of this caliber."

Gulezian added that plans are to be announced shortly for the 1984-85 Subscription Series. Advance reservations are being accepted for seats for next season.

Spring Concert Sunday

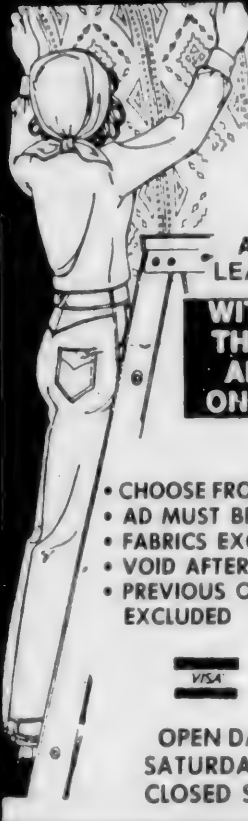

The Treble Chorus of New England invites the Merrimack Valley community to its spring concert Sunday, April 29, at the historic Trinitarian Congregational Church, Elm Street, North Andover, at 7:30 p.m. This concert celebrates the coming of spring with classical song. This nine-year-old, semi-professional regional chorus was founded and is conducted by Marie Stultz, artistic director. The 64 children, ages 7-16, are from North Andover, Andover, Methuen, North Reading, Wilmington, Tewksbury, Stoneham, Reading, Burlington and Vinchester.

Featured will be Brahms "Opus 17, Vier Gesänge" and "In Stille Nacht," "An Die Musik" of Schubert and "Friday Afternoons" of Benjamin Britten. Renaissance madrigals of the British Isles to welcome the spring season include "A Song for St. Cecilia" of Purcell and works by Weelkes and John Jacob Niles.

A reception to meet the artists will follow the concert.

Organ Tuners

David Howie, front, and Stephen Irons tune the Swell Trumpet on the Brooks School pipe organ. Both students are members of the Brooks School Organ Tuners Guild.

To Showcase Organ At Brooks

An organ recital, historical lecture and special presentation showcasing a 46 year-old pipe organ is set for Saturday, April 28, at Brooks School, Great Pond Road, North Andover.

Featured will be John Ogasapian, a nationally known organ historian and performer who will present a special program on the Brooks organ, which is the oldest experimental organ made especially by the Aeolian Skinner company in the mid-1930's to reproduce a sound resembling that of Baroque organs of Germany and France.

Also at the private school will be Barbara Owen, founder of the Organ Historical Society and organ historian. She will discuss the unique design of the organ.

The Brooks organ has been cited in many organ journals as one of the last remaining examples of an experiment by the Aeolian-Skinner company to recreate a classical pipe organ, on which to play the 17th and 18th century organ compositions.

This past summer, an additional 122 pipes were added to the organ to complete the instrument. The Andover Organ Company, of Lawrence, constructed the pipes. And the school will receive an award at the concert from the Organ Historical Society honoring the preservation and historical significance of the instrument.

Each week Brooks students tune the pipe organ. The five students, who call themselves the Brooks School Organ Tuners Guild, work with music director Earl Miller to maintain the sound of the organ.

The organ recital will begin in the school chapel at 4 p.m. The program is free and open to the public.

Vallario To Perform

Pianist Tom Vallario will perform at the Methuen Memorial Music Hall at 8 p.m. Sunday, April 29. The program will include works of Chopin, Beethoven, Mozart and Rossini, as well as a Verdi Fantasy (transcribed by Vallario) and a musical tribute to Barbra Streisand (arranged by Vallario).

Tickets are available at the door or by reservation. The Methuen Memorial Music Hall is located on Route 28, Methuen.

Will Lead Concert At Berklee College

Celebrated trumpeter-flugelhornist and Berklee College of Music faculty member Bill Scism, a resident of Andover, will lead his dynamic ensemble in "Sources," a concert of original and contemporary jazz, rock, fusion and blues, at 8:15 p.m. in the Berklee Performance Center, 1140 Boylston St., Boston, on May 2.

The recipient of a bachelor of music degree in music education from Berklee, Scism has served as director and principal arranger for the 389th Army Stage Band at Fort Monmouth, N.J., and has appeared as a member of the New Jersey State Orchestra. He has performed with a variety of show bands at premiere musical venues throughout the east and earned distinction as a studio musician at Warner Bros. Records.

Scism will direct his ensemble, comprised of the finest Berklee student instrumentalists, in a spirited and diverse program featuring a special guest appearance by Boston blues vocalist George Leh.

Scism is instructor of theory, arranging and ensemble performance at Berklee, the international center for education in professional music renowned for its jazz faculty and practical career preparation.

Recital At Gallery

The music department of Phillips Academy will present a guest recital featuring Peggy Pearson, well known oboist in the Boston area, and Martin Amlin, pianist, Sunday, April 29, at 3 p.m. at the Addison Gallery.

Pearson is solo oboist with the Emmanuel Chamber Orchestra, an organization which has performed the complete cycle of sacred cantatas by J.S. Bach. She is a member of the Emmanuel Wind Quintet (1981 winner of the prestigious Neumburg Award) and has appeared with Music from Marlboro, the Apple Hill Chamber Players, Musica Eiva and the Boston Symphony Ensemble College. She was a fellow of the Radcliffe Institute in contemporary music and has premiered numerous works, many of which were written specifically for her.

Pearson studied with Laurence Thorstenberg, Ralph Gombert, Alfred Genovese, Robert Bloom and Fernand Gillet. She is on the faculty at the Boston Conservatory and the Longy School of Music.

Amlin is a member of the music faculties at Phillips Exeter Academy and Boston University. He received his DMA degree and performance certificate at the Eastman School of Music. He was the recipient of an NSF grant to young composers in 1983.

The program will include works of Handel, Mozart and Vannatos. The public is invited.

Panoramic Photography At Gallery

New Hampshire Landscape

Ten photographers observing the world in a unique and horizontal manner is the viewpoint shared in Contemporary Panoramic Photography, an exhibition at the Addison Gallery of American Art, April 21-May 20, at Phillips Academy, on Main Street, Andover. A reception will be held Friday, April 27, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Museum hours are Tuesday-Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sundays, 2:30 p.m. to 5 p.m.

The 19th century saw great interest in panoramic photography as a novelty and technical marvel. The recent surge of contemporary panoramic photography, in which one dimension of the image is extreme, is very inventive. Subjects in the Addison exhibit are natural vistas, or interiors, the image large or small, black and white or in color, horizontal, but sometimes vertical.

Some of the show's panoramic images cover 360 degrees, total circular vision. Some are made in a camera designed to take wide images, some with a moving camera, others are assembled from several separate images. There is wide geographic variety: the panoramas were taken at Mt. St. Helen's, Paris, New York, Las Vegas, New Hampshire. All play with the limitations and extensions of our seeing. They are static images of the kinetic art of seeing, extensions of the eye's peripheral vision through the medium of photography.

Concert

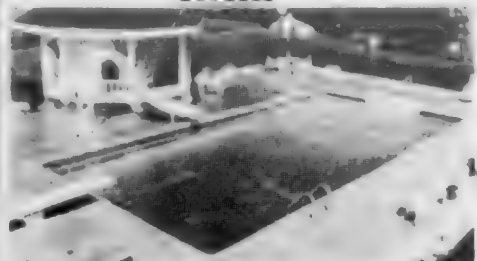

The Bradford-Pentucket Chorale Spring Concert, under the direction of Mark N. Peterson, will present "A Festival of American Music" on Saturday, May 5, at 8 p.m. in Conover Hall. The program will include a wide variety of music ranging from colonial to classic pieces by 20th century composers and will include works by George F. Root, Aaron Copland, Samuel Barber, Supply Belcher, Stephen C. Foster and others.

Tickets are on sale in the public relations office, Room 131, Academy Hall.

Chinese Works On Exhibit At Addison

An exhibition of Chinese Classical Brush Painting is on display at the Addison Gallery of American Art at Phillips Academy. Featured are the works of Son Mey Chiu, an award-winning artist and instructor in the Chinese language at Phillips Academy, and Maria Fang, a New York artist. The exhibition is presented in conjunction with the student International Asian Society of Phillips Academy. A reception is planned for April 27 from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. The exhibition will continue through May 6. Museum hours are Tuesday-Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sundays from 2:30 p.m. to 5 p.m.

On display are paintings of birds and flowers by Chiu and landscape paintings by Fang, all in Chinese ink and watercolor on rice paper. All Chinese painting technique is tied to the philosophy of its artists, Chiu notes, and presents insights into the cultural context of the works displayed.

In early May, Mr. Wu Tung, the Museum of Fine Arts curator of Asiatic art, will give a lecture on classical Chinese painting, open to the public. The activity is co-sponsored by the student International Asian Society to promote awareness of Chinese culture on the campus and in nearby communities.

Chiu studied for 10 years under Dr. Chao Shao-an, whom China acknowledges as one of its major living artists, and she has exhibited since 1964 in Taiwan, Hong Kong and the United States. In 1971 she won the classical Chinese Art Award in Taiwan and in 1979 won second prize in the National Oriental Painting Exhibition in Washington, D.C. She has exhibited in Bloomington, Indiana, and in Lexington and Boston, principally in the art exhibition of Chinese artists at John Hancock in 1979 and City Hall in 1983, and in Durham, N.H. where she and her husband and children live.

Fang has exhibited in the Art New York Fair and the New England School of Contemporary Art and at the Central Academy in Peking in 1980, the Dominican Republic in 1982 and at The China Showcase, Tremont Street, Boston, in 1983. She was educated at Simmons College, the Museum of Fine Arts Museum School and the Central Academy of Fine Arts in Peking and has taught at Brookline Center, the China Trade Museum and in the Dominican Republic.

'Cat' On Stage On Weekend

Andover Community Theatre, in conjunction with the Department of Community Services, will present the Tennessee Williams' play, "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," on April 27, 28 and 29 and May 4 and 5 at Doherty Jr. High School, Bartlet Street, Andover.

This play, which won the best play Pulitzer Prize and the Drama Critics Circle Award, demonstrates that Williams is the master of American dialect. His plays are violent, angry, poetic and disturbing in their ability to break through the facades and self-deceptions of a satisfied respectability and to reveal the warring passions of our darker selves beneath.

The cast features Dennis Perrault as Brick, Maribeth Hinderer as Maggie, Marianne Karp as Big

"Cat" is being produced and directed by Thomas A. Karp. A special matinee will be held Sunday, April 29, to 2 p.m. to which senior citizens and students with I.D.s will be admitted for a reduced price.

Advance tickets may be obtained at the Department of Community Services at Town Offices, the Butler's Pantry on Barnard Street, Andover, or at the door.

Salute To Disney Is Show Theme

The Boston Common, an internationally renowned barbershop quartet, will join the Greater Lawrence Townsman Chorus for its annual show May 12 at the Collins Center for the Performing Arts in Andover. This year's show, "A Salute to Disney," also features the top comedy quartet, "The Racquet Squad," from Westchester, N.Y.

Tickets are available through the Collins Center Box Office or mail order, c/o Box 958, Salem, N.H. 03079.

The Boston Common, 1980 International Barbershop Quartet champions, boasts a repertoire reflective of virtually every musical taste, ranging from old-fashioned barbershop ballads to contemporary up-tunes, from vaudeville to current stage hits, all in the traditional barbershop style.

The Racquet Squad, four zany men, combine the harmonious sound of barbershop with outrageous comedy. Come to see them to be their main goal, but it never obstructs the quality of the sound. Their hilarious visual effects, costume changes, and general choreography are off the beaten track.

The Townsman Chorus and all quartets appearing in this show are members of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Singing in America. This society sponsors shows such as "A Salute to Disney" and regional competitions and charitable contributions to the Institute of Logopedics (a group dedicated to helping children with speech defects).

Wine Label Personages Lounging by Ivan Chermayeff

Addison Exhibits Designer Chermayeff

A comprehensive retrospective exhibition of the work of Ivan Chermayeff, internationally renowned graphic designer, will open at the Addison Gallery of American Art in Andover on Friday, April 27, with a reception from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. "Works and Process" will display both Chermayeff's commercial projects and works of art in order to rigorously examine the artist's thinking and working methods.

Chermayeff has nearly defined the profession of graphic design in America with his commercial work over the past 25 years. Millions of Americans who may not recognize his name are intimately familiar with the logos or have visited the exhibits he has created. His designs have stunning visual directness, employing unexpected collections and combinations of things, including words as objects and objects as words. Chermayeff's design projects for arts organizations in particular are rich with cultural allusion, reflecting his long involvement with contemporary painting, sculpture and architecture.

Among his large projects are the interior design of the United States Pavilions for Expo '67, Montreal, and Expo '70, Osaka; The New England Aquarium in Boston; and "A Nation of Nations," designed for the U.S. Bicentennial year with staff members of the National Museum of History and Technology, Smithsonian Institution. His commercial work includes logos such as the Mobil "O" logo for Mobil Oil Company, magazine covers and posters. He has led national design organizations and won numerous awards.

The artist has identified four basic tendencies that occur consistently in his work and are revealed in this exhibition.

1. Collecting and assembly: "Lots of anything looks good. Collection becomes provocative when the objects were not meant to be collected. . . Assembly is juxtaposition."

2. Writing: "Words make associations. . . allow me to make arrangements. First, words put down on paper, words suggesting scenes, objects, images, connections; next, feeling a need for color, a few tentative dots are added, symbols of addments. . . until the words have altogether disappeared and a new work evolves."

3. Cutting and tearing: "cutting is clean and sharp and fast"

Lecture

Helping persons regain thought and language functioning following a head injury will be the topic of a lecture on Wednesday, May 2, from 3:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m., sponsored by the Speech, Hearing and Language

Center at Lawrence General Hospital, Lawrence. Danese Malkmus, M.K.A., CCC, co-director of the head injury center at Lewis Bay, MA, will discuss "Reorganization of Cognitive-Linguistic Functions Following CranioCerebral Trauma. Her lecture is geared to speech and language pathologists who work with head injury patients.

The lecture will take place in the hospital's auditorium.

Scissors are an extension of fingers. Tearing is between fingers. A tear is more like a brush stroke. Cutting is more like carving.

4. dotting and punching: "Punching makes a hole. A hole in a form can give form meaning. Punching is round. . . Dotting is meaning in context. . . Dots are tickle."

Each of these tendencies will be explored in one of four important galleries in the museum. A synthesis of these tendencies will be presented through a selection of key works in a final larger gallery.

Chermayeff is one of eight alumni artists honored by the school in 1980 with its Fuess Award for Distinguished Public Service in Art. Born in London in 1932, he studied at Harvard University, the Institute of Design in Chicago and graduated with a BFA from Yale University, School of Art and Architecture. With his partner, Tom Geismar, he is a principal in Chermayeff and Geismar, graphic and exhibits designers, and of the architectural and design firm, Cambridge Seven Associates.

Also on exhibition in other galleries of the museum are "Chinese Classical Brush Painting" Son-Mey Chiu and Maria Fong" (through May 6) and "Contemporary Panoramic Photography: ten photographers observing the world in a unique and horizontal manner" (through May 20).

The Addison Gallery is located on the Phillips Academy campus on Route 28. Admission is free. Museum hours are Tuesday-Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sundays, 2:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. The Chermayeff show will continue through June 17.

Performs At Memorial Concert

Pianist Mildred Moore Lane of Andover, a former music supervisor in the Andover schools as well as a former soloist with the Boston Pops, performed in a special concert in memory of her husband last week at Gordon College in Wenham.

During a concert in the Lane Student Center at the college, Mrs. Lane played on a grand piano she has donated to the college in memory of her husband, the late Stanley Lane.

The center is named for both Stanley Lane and his father, who were major benefactors of Gordon College since its earliest days; the college was founded nearly 100 years ago.

College President Richard Gross unveiled a portrait in memory of Stanley Lane as part of the day's events.

Mrs. Lane played selections from Bach, Chopin, Debussy, Haydn and Mendelssohn for an enthusiastic audience that responded to her concert with three standing ovations.

Among those present were a number of supporters from the Andover school department, as well as friends and neighbors from Andover and the Rev. David Ladre of the First Congregational Church of Methuen, who officiated at the Lane's wedding ceremony.

Mrs. Lane supervised the music program in the Andover schools for 15 years. In addition, she has performed as a soloist with the Boston Pops under the direction of Arthur Fiedler, as an organist at Tremont Temple in Boston, and as church organist for the First Congregational Church of Methuen for

A Fond Recollection Of Andover's Artists

By Susan Rand

The lives and work of some of Andover's most famous artists were recounted Tuesday morning at a coffee hour sponsored by the Andover Historical Society.

The discussion of eight Andover artists began with Barbara Loomer's insights into the life of Elisabeth Foster who's artwork is on display at the society's Main Street gallery through September. The exhibit is entitled "A Thing of Beauty is a Joy Forever: Elisabeth Foster's Watercolors 1835-1845."

Other artists discussed on Tuesday were Frances Dalton, Howard Ames Coon, H. Winthrop Pierce, Bancroft Haines, Helen Collins Dooley, Dorothy Farnham Sanborn and William Abbott Cheever.

There were paintings on exhibit by each of the artists, some of which belong to the Historical Society. Others were on loan from local owners and relatives of the artists.

Born in North Andover in 1824, Elisabeth Foster married John Foster Kimball in 1867. She lived at their 42 Central Street home until her death in 1904. The artist's step-daughter Florence Kimball has donated some 50 pieces of her mother's artwork to the Andover Historical Society.

The exhibit features watercolors, theorum paintings and linear pencil and ink drawings all done in a ten-year span when Foster was 11 to 21 years of age. There is a watercolor map of Essex County and a fruit painting she did at age 11. Also included are watercolors of birds, flowers, children and landscapes.

As you can see from her work Elisabeth Foster loved nature," Loomer told the group of 20 who gathered to hear the historical lecture. "All of her work had a quiet, gentle quality."

Loomer also told the group about William Abbott Cheever's contributions to art. An art teacher at Abbott Academy, Cheever's work included murals, landscapes and portraits. What Loomer called one of Cheever's finest works, a portrait of Nathan Hamblin, who was Pynchard High School's principal for 30 years, hangs in the society's library.

Now a resident of Amherst, N.H., Cheever is still a member of the Andover Historical Society.

Helen Collins Dooley, a resident of the Prescott Nursing Home, in North Andover, not only painted well. Reta Buchan told the group on Tuesday, she was an accomplished potter. A piece of Dooley's pottery and a sterling silver box she designed were part of the exhibit of her work. Dooley worked mostly in oils, watercolors and pencil. Buchan showed a sketch of the South Church and a seascape of Rockport by the Andover-born Dooley who started the Andovers Artists Guild in her barn.

Buchan also told the group of Dorothy Farnham Sanborn's attempts to teach her to paint. The two young women set out to capture apple blossoms on a canvas and Buchan said with a laugh that she ended up "using up all of Dorothy's white paint."

Sanborn, now deceased, was from Newton. She moved to Andover in the 1930's and married Henry C. Sanborn, the one-time superintendent of schools. Two samples of Sanborn's work were at the society on Tuesday. One was an etching of snapdragons. The other, a Christmas gift for Buchan's daughter, showed a child's Teddy Bear and

My family prizes that picture very highly," Buchan told the group.

The paintings of Bancroft Haines have a special place in Ruth Sharpe's heart because much of what the Ballardvale resident painted is home to Sharpe. Born in 1850, Haines and his brother Felix ran a grocery store in Ballardvale, where he lived until his death in 1920. The Historical Society has three of Haines' works, all watercolors, including a view of the village that happens to be Sharpe's backyard.

There is also a print at the society of a painting Haines did of the view from the top of Ryle's Hill, in Ballardvale. The original painting was on display on the Memorial Hall Library stairwell but fell victim to a vandal's knife, said Sharpe. It now sits in the library director's office awaiting repairs.

Another Andover favorite of Sharpe's was H. Winthrop Pierce who along with his artistic wife Ethel were nicknamed Sir Winthrop and Lady Ethel. The couple moved here in 1906 to a home at 36 Morton St. that was to become site of rehearsals of the Barnstormers, a theater group the couple started. Social life in Andover revolved around the home at 36 Morton St., said Sharpe. In 1912 Pierce was named the most eminent man in Andover. And in 1918 the couple moved to Boston.

Pierce's paintings at the society include a rendering of the Rose cottage at the corner of Central and Chestnut Streets and a watercolor of a costume Pierce designed for one of the theater performances he was famous for staging.

Bernice Haggerty reminisced about the candy store that artist Frances Dalton's

To Be Speakers At Service

Rosalee Sinn, regional director of the Heifer Project, and Frank Robbins, director of the Wycliffe Bible Translators, will be guest speakers during Sunday Worship at South Church.

The two are participating in "Journey Outward," South's 10-day missions conference, which gets underway tomorrow with a family dinner at 6:30 p.m. and Saturday with an all-day workshop on "Parenting for Peace and Justice." Reservations for both may still be made by calling the church office.

Sinn, who will meet with the church's youth earlier Sunday, has been with the Heifer Project for 18 years. The project, which has long been supported in the Andover area, is a world-wide self-help organization that provides livestock, poultry and related agricultural services to people in developing areas.

As area director, Sinn oversees two projects in Maine, Coastal Enterprises in Wiscasset and HOME in Orland, and three in New York, Cattaraugus Reservation in Gowanda, Ganienkeh Indian Territory near Altona and a resource, conservation and development group in Norwich.

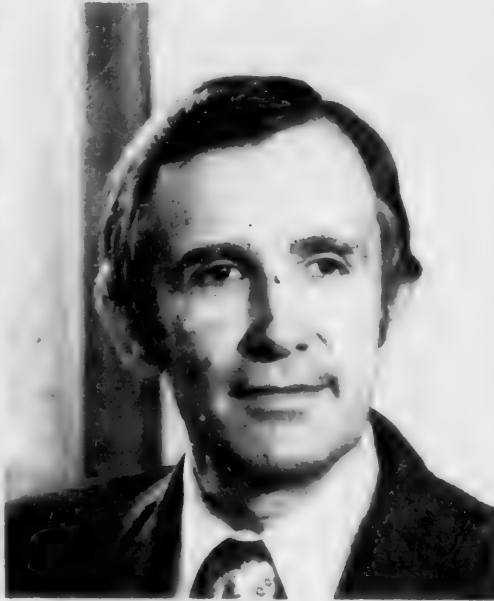

Her office in Plymouth coordinates shipment of livestock purchased from or donated by breeders in the Northeast.

Robbins has been with the Wycliffe Bible Translators since 1950 and executive director since 1976. He served in Mexico for 22 years and will be area director for Africa beginning in 1985. He holds a master's degree in Chinantec phonology and a Ph.D. in linguistics (Chinantec grammar) and is an adjunct associate professor at the University of Texas at Arlington. He and his wife, Ethel, have four married children; two are with Wycliffe in Africa, one is director of Wycliffe's Field Training Course in Texas and another is moving toward staff at Wycliffe's Quest program in California.

David Bliss of African Enterprise will speak during Special Worship at 7 p.m. Sunday on "A South African Movement of Prayer."

Elmer Abbot, a Wycliffe anthropologist, will speak on her work in a Mexican jungle camp to WICS (Women in Christian Services) Monday at 9 a.m.; Norman Friberg of the Bible Medical Missionary Fellowship in Afghanistan will meet with the junior high P.F. group Tuesday after school and Stan Farmer, founder of "His Mansion," a place of healing for troubled young people in Hillsboro, N.H., will speak to the men's group Wednesday at 7 a.m. and to the Adult Bible Study group at 10 a.m.

A native of Peak's Island, Maine, Farmer served aboard nuclear submarines as a reactor operator and worked for Connecticut Yankee Atomic Power Company as a health physicist and for Consolidated Controls in Danbury, CT, as a salesman in their nuclear safety instrumentation division. He and his wife, Joan, founded Bread of Life Bookstore in Groton, CT, in 1970 and in 1972, with three others, formed the idea for a halfway house for youth. They moved into an old Victorian mansion in Wauregan, CT, and began to administer to young people, most of whom were drug addicted. As the word spread they attracted young people from all over the U.S. and Canada.

His Mansion moved to a 400-acre site in New Hampshire after a fire in 1979 destroyed the original. Now with 12 buildings, a church and barn the facility resembles a small village and continues to minister to young people in need.

All of the events of the Journey Outward conference are open to the community. South Church is located at 41 Central St., Andover.

Meeting Initiate Campaign

For the past two decades the number of Southern Baptist congregations located in the Northeast has quietly grown. In the 11-state region stretching from the District of Columbia north to Maine there are now almost 1,000 Southern Baptist churches.

And they're planning a campaign to make their presence known. According to Rev. Keith Coleman, pastor of the Judson Memorial Baptist Church in Lawrence, congregations throughout the Northeast will conduct special services to reach out to their communities toward the end of April. Rev. Coleman's church is planning meetings at 7:30 p.m. each night between April 29 and May 4. There will be a guest speaker, special music and a series of activities for the whole family. The public is invited.

Rev. Coleman says many of the participating churches will run an ad campaign which emphasizes the qualities of faith that distinguish the Northeastern Baptist congregations. "The ads will reflect our emphasis on friendship and caring, the intimate size of most of our Northeast congregations and, of course, of our faith in Jesus Christ," he said.

In their relatively short history, the Southern Baptists have grown to become America's largest protestant denomination, numbering more than 14 million in membership. Although they're generally thought of as a white, middle-class denomination, they are the most culturally diverse denomination in the U.S., counting among their members more than 90 different ethnic groups. They have congregations in all 50 states and anticipate continued growth in the Northeast.

"People who get to know us find the strength of our faith an exciting counterpoint to the uncertainty of modern times," said Rev. Coleman. "Our emphasis on family values and a solid home life and our uncompromising faith in Christ give us a unity that is uncommon today."

Adult Foster Care Celebrated

Elder Services of the Merrimack Valley held a reception on March 28 to commemorate Adult Foster Care Week.

Sen. Patricia McGovern presented the Adult Foster Care Week proclamation, recently signed by Governor Dukakis. The buffet luncheon was attended by representatives from social service agencies, several elderly clients and others who support elder services.

Since establishing an adult foster care program in the Merrimack Valley in 1981, Elder Services of the Merrimack Valley has served more than 35 older people and disabled adults in need of a supervised living environment. Foster care is cost effective, life enhancing and one of the first programs to access Medicaid funding for non-institutionalized long-term care.

N.H.

The fastest growing church in America.

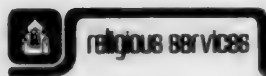

It may not look like much from the outside. But this small, intimate church is part of the phenomenal growth the Southern Baptists have experienced over the past 100 years. From humble beginnings the Baptists have grown into the largest Protestant denomination in the country. Today there are more than 36,000 Southern Baptist churches in America—churches that will continue to grow because of what they offer everyone who strolls through their doors.

They offer a living faith centered on the Lord Jesus Christ. They offer an intimate and caring fellowship that embraces the truths found in the Bible. They offer a setting in which you can discover what it's like to be part of a group that's growing through life together. If you'd like to find out more about the love that Christ has given us to share, plan to be at our church on the dates listed below. You'll make some new friends. What you experience could change your life forever.

Lowell Street Residents Still Want Sewer Problem Relief

Town meeting defeated their first attempt to have town sewer service extended to serve their homes, but a group of Lowell Street residents are still seeking a solution to their septic system problems.

John Corey of 81 Lowell St. Monday night told the selectmen the residents hope to see 850 feet of sanitary sewer line installed from 71 Lowell St. to tie into an existing trunk line at 91 Lowell St.

Fifteen houses are included in that area, and residents of six households have petitioned the selectmen for a new sewer line. The petitioning residents are willing to pay betterments to pay for the line, Corey said.

The residents may ask a future town meeting — either next spring, or a special meeting in the fall — to approve the new sewer line. Their alternative, according to Public Works Director Robert McQuade, is to pay a contractor to do the work, rather than paying the town for the sewer through betterments.

Corey explained that area residents have had "recurring problems" with their septic systems during the past two years. Joan Roberge of 87 Lowell said her system failed this winter, and Charles Parrott of 71 Lowell said his system has failed as well.

Other residents also related their problems to the board: Janet Wetterberg of 85 Lowell St., for instance, said her septic system has to be pumped twice every year.

McQuade said he had "no objections" to adding the sewer line, which is included in the town's master sewer plan, but cautioned that installing the line could be extremely expensive because it would require deep excavations, starting at 14 feet.

Town officials have applied for state matching funds for the work, but the project ended up "below the basement" on the state's priority list, the director noted.

McQuade said he would develop cost estimates for the work, but those estimates could be off-target if the excavations run into rock.

The selectmen advised the residents to work with Public Works and the Board of Health, and asked the town manager to report back to them during the summer.

Town Manager Kenneth Mahony added that the residents should be sure all neighbors in the area are informed of plans that could call for betterments, and that residents should keep the health department informed of their septic system problems and failures.

Selectman William Dalton noted that it may prove less expensive for the residents to continue pumping their septic systems twice a year than to pay for a sewer line.

Earlier this month, annual town meeting defeated a proposal for a sanitary sewer line to be installed on Lowell Street between Canterbury Street and Chandler Circle (Article 38).

That area is larger than the one residents are interested in. McQuade said DPW suggested expanding the area because once septic systems begin to fail in one area, it is "only a matter of time" before failures begin to happen nearby. Expanding the area would also decrease the cost of betterments for each household, he added.

The Planning Board recommended defeat of the article because they said alternatives had not been fully explored, and the Board of Health had only one report of a septic system failure in the area.

The DPW director said he believed that when the planners made that recommendation, they did not have the kind of information residents related to the selectmen Monday night.

Collins Day

Andover students won't get the holiday off but the school committee suggested J. Everett Collins can relax tomorrow, his 50th birthday and now officially "J. Everett Collins Day" in the town's public schools.

On Tuesday night, at the suggestion of School Committee member Michael R. Giammusso the board unanimously voted to honor Andover's popular musician, after whom the performing arts center at the high school is named.

Andover Schools Reading Program Has Nationwide Impact

By Susan Rand

The School Committee got some insight on Tuesday into a reading program created in Andover that thousands of school children are using in 250 schools spread over 27 states.

What began in 1971 as a survey of available reading materials for children in grades one through eight aimed at bringing up the average on national reading test scores of Andover's children ended in the creation of a new program for the students that has raised student scores, in many cases to a near-perfect level on the same tests just ten years later. The one-of-a-kind reading program is called AIRS, which stands for Andover's Individualized Reading System.

Superintendent of Schools Kenneth R. Seifert gave credit for the metamorphosis of the reading program to Coordinator Theresa Murphy, who has been with the Andover reading program since 1969, two years after she started working in the Andover school system. Seifert told the school committee members, at their regular meeting this week, that he thought Andover had the best reading program in the country.

"This is something that is far different than anything that had ever been done before," said Seifert. "Of all our instructional projects this is the most superior."

The program has been supported by federal funds and now exists on a combination of profits from the sale of the program to schools all around the country and federal monies. Some schools use AIRS throughout their entire system, others use the program in only one school or in one classroom at the school. The largest use of AIRS is the Southern Berkshire school system in Massachusetts. Some 46 schools in the state and another 20 in New Hampshire use AIRS.

Murphy explained that using AIRS was comparable to using a textbook and workbook system. As an example she said that the cost to equip a fourth grader with AIRS for use over three years is $46. That same per student cost in a textbook and workbook system would be between $42 and $50, according to a survey of four publishers Murphy has investigated.

In 1975 AIRS was cited by the National Right-to-Read Effort as one of the 12 exemplary reading programs in the country. Federal funds followed that award and the program has been sold nationwide since 1977. Now AIRS is available with software, appropriately called AIRSware. The computer component of the project has developed with a grant from the Apple Education Foundation. AIRSware will enable teachers to score and analyze reading tests and keep profile information on individual students and classes.

The goal of AIRS is fourfold. The information booklet created to introduce AIRS to school administrators claims the program seeks to develop consistency and consistency in the language arts, competency in teaching skills for mastery, growth in reading scores and enjoyment of literature by students. There are eight components to the program, which are developed in a series of 500 booklets, most of which Murphy said are authored by Andover's reading specialists and teachers. The AIRS components are phonetic analysis, word recognition, structural skills and spelling, grammar and word usage, comprehension, word meaning, capitalization and punctuation and individualized reading.

To bear out the success of AIRS scores of students tested in 1972, before AIRS, show that Andover ranked slightly above the national norm in the achievement test scores. But Andover test scores in 1981 had a low grade of 91 and 11 grades of 95+, the highest possible score, in the Educational Testing Service achievement test scores of students in grades one through 11 in both comprehension and writing.

River Road Subdivision Plan Provides For 36 New Lots

By Sue Aucella Deacon

The Planning Board Tuesday night reviewed proposals for two side-by-side subdivisions off River Road, which, if approved, would add a total of 36 new house lots to the

Resignations Received

The School Committee approved two resignations and three transfer requests from school department employees at their meeting on Tuesday night.

At the Anasaldi, a computer programmer, announced his resignation, effective April 20, to accept another job. Anasaldi's resignation, said Superintendent of Schools Kenneth R. Seifert, brings the number of persons who have held the $19,000 computer job up to five. And Anasaldi's leaving couldn't have come at a worse time, said Seifert. He explained that the school system is in the midst of the third marking period and trying to schedule classes for next year, both of which demand computer expertise to complete.

Seifert said the private sector can easily lure computer analysts away from schools with the promise of a higher salary and advancement. The computer position has been in the school system since 1975. And Anasaldi is the third person to hold the job in the last three years, Seifert said.

Although the committee unanimously approved the resignation they agreed to investigate alternate ways to provide computer assistance for the schools. Committee member Susan T. Moore agreed with Seifert that the school system should be the one Chelmsford schools have with the University of Lowell may be the way to go.

Richard E. Neal suggested looking into some type of agreement with business for computer help. Seifert told the group he would staff the computer post with part-time help and return with a recommendation for the post at the next meeting.

Reading program advisor Theresa Murphy has taken on the duties of executive director of the AIRS D-D Project (see story on the page 38 elsewhere in this issue). A post she will hold through June 30. Her transfer from the program advisor position was approved retroactive to March 26 of this year. Murphy is a federally funded post carries a salary of $27,200. Murphy's reading job will be temporarily taken over by Dorothy Sipsey, now an instructional specialist in the school system.

And Beatrice Pfister, an instructional aide at the West Elementary School, has resigned for personal reasons. Pfister has been on a leave of absence for the 1983-84 school year.

Also approved by the board was the transfer of Helen Rogers, a clerk secretary at the West Elementary School, to the position of clerk secretary at the principal of West River Road landscape.

The board held a public hearing on definitive plans for River Edge, a 17-lot cluster subdivision that would be located across from the intersection of River Road and Cross Street off River Road.

And then discussed preliminary plans for High Park, a 19-lot cluster that would be located just east of River Edge, next to Launching Road. Both subdivisions would overlook the Merrimack River.

Several neighbors from River Road told the planners they opposed both plans because they would add traffic to the busy roadway, and could increase water problems they already have in the wet area.

Some residents also objected to the idea of clustering the houses, rather than requiring conventional one-acre lots.

Cluster zoning, Chairman Margaret Bradshaw explained, allows a developer to offer a trade-off, exchanging for leaving more permanent open space on the site. The open space is usually needed for the construction of a drainage system for the subdivision.

Engineer Arthur Fosse of Dana P. Perkins Associates presented plans for both sites, representing Starr Realty Trust of Reading, the developer of both sites.

Preliminary plans for River Edge have already been approved, the developer is now seeking approval of definitive plans, and a special permit to cluster.

The 20-acre, heavily wooded site would be subdivided into 17 lots, Fosse said, including one lot with frontage on River Road. Each lot would be approximately 30-000 square feet. The lots would be clustered around one 40-foot roadway ending in a cul-de-sac, and would be served by septic systems and town water.

The developer would need 7.7 acres of open space to A.V.I.S., Fosse said, and leave a 30-foot buffer between the rear of the back house lots and the Merrimack River. About half of that acreage is wetlands and half is dry, he said. Drainage from the site will flow toward the river, according to the engineer.

Regrading on the site would be nothing extreme, Fosse said, the developer is not seeking a special permit for regrading.

Construction might begin at the end of the summer, he told neighbors, estimating that it would take two years to complete.

Moving next door to High Park, Fosse said 19 house lots (including two with frontage on River Road) would be clustered around a 40-foot roadway ending in a cul-de-sac. The development would be served by septic systems and town water. Drainage from the site would run to the Merrimack River.

The developer would turn over 10 acres of open space to A.V.I.S., 65 to 70 percent of it dry land, the engineer said. The project would require "minimal" earth regrading, Fosse said.

Bradshaw said the developer should submit a written explanation of how a cluster development would differ from a conventional lot development on the site, as well as an argument describing the advantage to the town of allowing a cluster on the site.

The Library Dilemma

Hopefully there is an air of reassurance in the comments by the town manager that the Memorial Hall Library project will proceed as planned, despite some obstacles which have been presented.

Selectmen this week were informed that the original plan to allow the renovation and construction of a library by selling the building to a private contractor appears now to be unworkable. The town would lease the building back from the contractor for a 15-year period in a manner similar to the renovation of the East Junior High wings. The plan had tax advantages for private contractors and results in savings to the town.

But, the library project apparently does not fit the same mold as the junior high project. That, along with increasing interest rates and changes in federal tax laws, makes the library project not so appealing or advantageous for private development.

What, then, is to happen to the much-needed library expansion and renovation project?

Town Manager Kenneth R. Mahony assures that the project will go ahead, but without the plan as originally presented.

Apparently the town will undertake the project on its own.

Whatever the case, it would be more reassuring if the overall plans for library construction were expedited.

In the face of rising construction costs, it is feared that the original plans developed by engineers and architects, may be beyond funds available from last year's town meeting.

Should that be the case, the town would be required to either seek additional funding or reduce the scope of the project.

The expansion and renovation of the library is something which has been under consideration for some time.

Annually trustees of the library would appear before the town seeking approval of their project. Annually they would be requested to defer their request in favor of more urgent projects, such as school construction, or other capital expenditures. The trustees patiently acceded to the town's wishes.

Now, improvement and expansion of one of the town's vital assets seems destined for further postponement, or even some replanning which is unfortunate.

Attentiveness to moving the project from the drawing board to actual construction is now in order if the town is to expect to receive a building as approved at the annual town meeting a year ago.

Further delay only increases construction and financing costs.

Hopefully the town manager and selectmen will proceed with eliminating any further delays in examining private construction possibilities and get this project underway.

The Public Forum

Appreciative

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

The TOWNSMAN's support of a community project certainly brings results, inspires participation and gives it class. We thank you for your invaluable encouragement. It helped to put Roger's Dell in focus for many townspeople. It helped to beautify one more corner of Andover. And it helped to bring some wonderful folks together as new friends with a common interest in preserving natural beauty in our town. Roger's Dell will soon be a mini-park full of the evidence of the caring labors of so many workers.

We thank you for the big part played by the TOWNSMAN in helping people successfully channel their love for nature and for their community.

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

We just want to thank the firemen of Andover and some very special friends — they know who they are.

The motor of our refrigerator burned up. Thank God for smoke detectors. It's really scary when you see the flames. Got them out but then to pull the panel I couldn't.

I called 475-1212 and the firemen were here in five minutes. I will never forget all their help and kindness. They got the smoke out quickly, salvaged everything from the fridge and removed the refrigerator outside.

I just wanted to say — have your smoke detectors in working order, have fire extinguishers, make sure your insurance covers all you have — it might be more than you think — and above all, have that number handy — 475-1212. It might save your life. The smoke detector saved mine.

Down The Years With The Townsman

75 Years Ago — April 1909

A number from Andover witnessed the finish of the B.A. Marathon run of 25 miles from Ashland to Boston, but they missed seeing the local entrants finish, for Manuel Themea dropped out at 14 miles, and Patrick Donovan at 21 miles.

The old stone house on Red Spring road which is said to have been the scene of at least three fires, was in the path of the storm that passed over Andover last Monday afternoon, and suffered the loss of its chimney, very much to the discomfort of the occupants.

A special meeting of the School committee was held last Thursday evening and the Board adopted a policy regarding the publicity of its doings. It is learned that the following motions were passed: 1st, "That the Superintendent be the agent of the Board to give out the deliberations of this Board." 2nd, "That it be the policy of the Board that nothing be given out for publication other than actual votes passed by the full board and not any expression of individual opinion."

50 Years Ago — April 1934

Don't forget to set your clocks one hour ahead tomorrow night — and more important, don't forget that church starts on daylight saving time Sunday morning, even if it does mean you have to get up an hour earlier.

A bright future, filled with opportunities for the country's young men, was pictured Tuesday evening by James Roosevelt, the President's son, in an address at George Washington hall. Nearly 1000 gathered to hear the young man speak in a hall where, as Dr. Fuess said in introducing him, a Democrat was once looked upon askance.

In connection with the coming celebration of the 75th anniversary of Punchard school, Miss C. Madeline Hewes, statistical secretary of the Alumni association, is endeavoring to procure some information on some of the first graduates.

Uncle Elmer and his fifteen gospel singers, popular favorites with Sunday morning radio fans, will present one of their memorable Song Circle programs at the Free church Sunday evening at seven o'clock under the auspices of the Ways and Means committee. The program will begin with the well-known "There's A Rainbow Shining Somewhere," with which Uncle Elmer, whose real name is Elmer Herskind, begins all his broadcasts.

25 Years Ago — April 1959

The Board of Health will "strongly recommend" to the Board of Construction Co. that it install a sewer for some of its new houses in Ballardvale, plus paying for a major portion of a $30,000 expansion project at the sewerage treatment plant. In a decision reached Monday night, the Board in effect reversed its previous decision, by the former Board, which gave tentative approval for septic tanks.

The 1969 tax rate has been set at $26 per thousand valuation. Assessor Archie MacLaren announced that figure Wednesday but said it must now go to the state Department of Controlling and Taxation for final approval.

Major parking decisions were reached this week, after a meeting of David Nicoll and Acting Town Manager Victor Medler conferred on the problems. Essex st., under the new arrangements, will be unrestricted on both sides from the square down to Brook st. Parking will also be unrestricted from St. Augustine's church to the railroad tracks on the north side. It was understood Monday night that the state has already posted North Main st. for two-hour parking.

Status Of Library?

Dear Donn: To The Chairman, Selectmen

The League of Women Voters of Andover supports continued expansion and improvement of the Memorial Hall Library. To that end we supported the 1983 Town Meeting decision that the library expansion be financed in a sale-lease-back arrangement.

The public perceives this project as a fait accompli. In fact, the library expansion appears in jeopardy, especially in view of the June 30 deadline.

We feel the townspeople are deserving of an explanation. Can you elaborate on the current status of the Memorial Hall Library expansion, and can you assure us that the project will be completed as planned?

Judith C. Medler, president

Site preparation at Doctor's Park

New Medical Center Building To Make Health Care Convenient

Nine Doctor's Park physicians are building a $3 million medical center that they hope will make medical care easier for Andover residents to obtain.

The nine-acre project will be constructed adjacent to the Haverhill Street office complex where the nine developer-physicians have their offices. The complex will include a surgical day care center, a walk-in clinic and doctors' offices.

The new building, which with 30,000 square feet will be slightly larger than the Doctor's Park building which has 26,000 square feet, is being built by Drs. Joseph Rokous, Richard Katz, Roger Letourneau, John Niceforo, Charles Ellis, Donald Slipp, Martin Melia, George LeMaitre and Vincent Savukinas. Construction is scheduled to begin on May 1.

Rokous told THE TOWNSMAN that the nine developers had been discussing the idea of a "free-standing" ambulatory surgical center for about seven years. "Free-standing," explained Rokous, means the center not attached to a hospital. The physicians acted on their idea when it began to take shape four years ago. And they hope to open the center sometime after the first of the year, said Rokous.

But before the surgical day care center portion of the project may be used the state must award a certificate of need for that portion of the complex, which will take up 6,000 square feet in the new building. Rokous said the physicians weren't going to apply for the state certificate but changed their minds when Blue Cross Blue Shield announced last month that they would reimburse the costs of surgery at free-standing clinics which had need certificates from the state.

The doctors applying to the state for the need certificate are members of a corporation called the Andover Surgical Day Care Center, Inc., including Rokous, Savukinas, Donald Lang, George Pomerantz, Richard Orton and Stephen Scully.

Officials at the state health department explained that it can take up to a year for the state to decide if the service requested should be licensed. When examining an application for a certificate of need the state looks at the financial feasibility of the project and the need for the service in the area.

"We don't want to duplicate services already in the area," said Janet Hookaulo, of the state Determination of Need division.

The state board will have information from the Merrimack Valley Health Planning Council to consider when they make their decision too. The local council will make a recommendation to the state to approve, disapprove or approve the request with conditions said Merrimack Valley Council Director Edmond Perregaux.

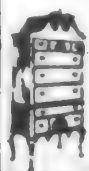

Preliminary work on the Haverhill Street site is almost finished according to John Richie, of Charles Construction, the North Andover company doing the early work there. As site work progresses the developers must heed the rules laid down by the Andover Conservation Commission which gave the physicians specific rules to follow as the property is developed. Because the site has wetlands the conservation board must spell out how that land will be protected in a set of building instructions called an order of

Kitchen Design

David A. Clement, designer

Are you planning your kitchen greenhouse as a passive solar unit? Locate the greenhouse on the south side of the house to take advantage of winter sun. Its best position is due south but 15 degrees or so either way will not be critical. Determine the ideal angle for the greenhouse's collector, its sloped roof. A rule of thumb is to add 20 degrees to the site's latitude. A passive solar unit needs a thermal mass to soak up heat during the day and release it during the night. A cement, brick, stone or gravel floor works well, when the greenhouse is an integral part of a room's interior, insulating shades are needed to minimize night-time heat loss and summer overheating.

You're remodeling your kitchen and you've always wanted a place for your plants but you fear you'll lose too much cabinet space. Come to WINDSOR KITCHENS at 1181 Boston Rd. Ward Hill, and you'll see a full range of cabinets that will give you more space with less units than you have right now. Today's cabinets make use of every last inch of space. With pull-out drawers and shelves, lazy-susans, tray cabinets and pantry cabinets, your kitchen will be the height of organization. Let our staff show you all this Mon. The mile-event was a clean sweep for Andover as Yezerksi finished first with Tony Holbrook two-tenths of a second behind in second and Chris Bartley third. Zack Apgar captured second place in three events, long jump, 100 and the 220. Greg Beeber was second in javelin and Tim Perry second in the high jump. Third-place finishers were Tom Darling in discus, Ken Long in the triple jump, Perry, high hurdles, Driscoll, low hurdles, and Tom Fortin in a three-way tie for the pole vault event.

The boys competed against 20 schools in the Haverhill Invitational Meet on April 21, scoring 138 points for the win over second-place Reading, 85, third place Chelmsford, 66, and fourth-place Methuen, 44. Rick Dow beat the class A and B state champions in the two mile race, finishing first with a time of 9:41. Other first places were captured by the two-mile relay team of Bartley, Mark Asgeirson, Richard Burke and Holbrook, Ian Dowe in the shot put and 100, Comeau, low hurdles, and Apgar, long jump. The shuttle hurdle relay team of Driscoll, Perry, Paul Hevehan and John Barry came in second along with Andy Thompson, long jump, Apgar, 220, and Cuddy, 440. Two relays scored third-place points: the 440 team of Apgar, Comeau, Bob Stabile and Dowe and the 880 team of Thompson, Dave Casanave, Briant Gaudet and Jim McAlister. Yezerksi was third in the mile and Stabile third in low hurdles.

Rick Graham and Beeber were fourth and fifth in javelin. Long fourth in the triple jump, Darling fifth in discus, Salisbury fifth in the 880, Comeau sixth in the long jump and Casanave sixth in the 100.

The Andover High tracksters are looking forward to some stiff competition as they host the Class A State Relays this Saturday and then a combined meet against a tough Chelmsford team on Wednesday, May 2.

Andover Bows To Chelsea

After wrapping up the regular season as the Division 1 champs in Danvers, the Squirt B team found itself in the playoff finals against Chelsea.

During the season when Andover compiled a record of 20-3-1, Chelsea was credited with two of Andover's losses, but one came as the result of a forfeit due to a scheduling conflict and the other was the last game of the regular season after the final standings were already assured.

The first two periods produced scoreless hockey and it was not until one minute into the final period that a goal was scored. Chelsea broke the ice and then scored again four minutes later out of a scramble in front of the Andover net to go ahead 2-0.

However, with less than two minutes remaining in their season, John Constantine sent Jay Coburn on a end-to-end rush and the score was quickly 2-1. Try as they might however, Andover could not pull this one out as they had so many times during the past season and the game ended with Chelsea posting a 2-1 victory.

A victory in this game would have topped off a spectacular season for a club that brought themselves from the bottom of Division 2 last year to the top of Division 1 in the 83-84 season.

The key to the team's success rests in the fact that the squad gave up fewer goals than any other team in their division.

Junior Varsity Opens With Wins

By Dan Grams

The Andover High School junior varsity baseball team opened their season by notching a pair of victories during April vacation week.

The Junior Warriors outslugged their opposition by a 26-8 margin and received outstanding pitching performances from sophomores Rob Carpentier and Kevin Rourke.

Andover 8 - Lowell 4

Rob Carpentier turned in an outstanding two-way performance to lead the Golden Warriors to an impressive 8-4 victory over Lowell High.

Carpentier limited a talented Lowell club to four hits while fanning 11 and walking 1.

Andover opened the scoring in the first stanza as Rob Ditroia led off with a walk, stole second and advanced to third on Leo Gravell's sacrifice bunt. Carpentier lined a sharp single to right, scoring Ditroia. John Nuzzo followed by reaching on a fielder's choice. Dave Schwedler then executed a perfect hit and run, moving Nuzzo to third. Nuzzo continued to score when Lowell had trouble finding a handle on Schwedler's shot.

Lowell came right back in their half as Jim Durgin led off with a single, stole second and advanced to third on a wild pitch. He later scored on an infield out to cut the Andover lead to 2-1.

The Red Raiders evened the score in the third inning with a walk, two stolen bases and a throwing error.

After a short rain delay, Andover exploded for four runs in the fifth.

Pinch hitter Earl Abdo got things going with a single up the middle. Ditroia moved Abdo to second with a perfect sacrifice bunt. Gravell laced a solid single to left, putting runners on the corners. Carpentier picked up his second RBI single of the afternoon, delivering Abdo. Nuzzo followed with a long double to chase home two more runs and Rob Nelson closed the fifth inning, scoring with an RBI single.

Carpentier, meanwhile, had taken control on the mound, retiring 17 of 20 batters over the first six innings, including eight in a row over the middle innings.

Andover pushed across two insurance runs in the sixth, highlighted by run-scoring singles by Carpentier and Schwedler.

Lowell picked up two runs in the bottom of the seventh, thanks to two Andover errors, to pull within four, but the score was a lot closer than the game itself.

Carpentier and Schwedler each had three hits and three RBIs while Kevin Rourke chipped in with a pair of hits. Gravell, Nuzzo, Nelson and Abdo had the other Warrior hits.

Second baseman Gravell and centerfielder Rourke stood out defensively.

Andover 14 - Chelmsford 1

Andover erupted for six runs in the second inning, erasing a quick 1-0 lead.

The Golden Warriors unleashed a savage 14-hit attack to go along with nine walks off three Chelmsford hurlers.

Righthander Kevin Rourke picked up the win by tossing a flashy four-hitter. Rourke faced 26 batters, struck out 7 and walked 4.

Andover spotted Chelmsford a quick 1-0 lead which Al Marshall led off with a walk, stole second and advanced to third when Rourke uncorked a wild pitch. Tom Egan drove Marshall home with a single to right and advanced to third when the ball got by the rightfielder. Rourke then walked the next batter, but escaped further damage when catcher Earl Abdo gunned down O'Brien attempting to steal.

Andover came right back, picking up all the runs they would need. Larry Aiello lead off with a walk. Rob Nelson unloaded a deep drive to right field for a triple and Abdo deposited a line drive home run over the left-center field fence. An error and a Rourke single set the table for John Nuzzo's RBI double, followed by a Dave Schwedler double to close the Andover scoring in the second inning.

The Golden Warriors picked up seven more runs in the bottom of the third.

Back-to-back singles by Abdo and Dave Sullivan, followed by a Ditroia walk, loaded the bases again. Rob Carpentier, Nuzzo, Schwedler, Aiello and Nelson followed with RBIs to up the Andover lead to 13-1.

Andover closed the scoring in the sixth when Peter Quintal and Nuzzo walked and Schwedler picked up his third hit of the game to plate Quintal.

Schwedler and Abdo had three hits while Rourke, Nuzzo and Nelson each picked up a pair of safeties. Sullivan and Paul Sapienza also had base hits.

Rob Ditroia reached base four out of five times. Nelson shined defensively, turning over the first double play of the young season.

On The Soccer Fields

By She Livermore

Many of the games scheduled for last weekend had to be postponed due to a large number of players being out of town during school vacation. Brief results of the games that were played in gusting winds and an occasional snow flurry appear below:

Under 14 Division

Andover Chargers 0 - Salem Fire 3

The first half was scoreless with Andover's attempts to score denied by the Salem defense. Midway through the second half, Salem scored following a defensive miscue. Both teams made some good attempts to score and Salem finally succeeded, adding two more goals to their total which sent sailing into the net high above the outstretched arms of goalkeeper Ted Andry, who played an outstanding game, both as a forward and in net. BOW: Chris Lowe, Glenn Driscoll and Andry.

Andover Sting 0 - Lynn Arsenal 1

Andover held the edge in the first part of the contest but were unable to capitalize on their scoring opportunities. Lynn pressed the attack and after many good attempts had been rejected, scored what proved to be the winning goal. The score remained unchanged in the second half, despite Lynn's attempts to increase their lead and Andover's numerous efforts at the equalizer. BOW: Goalkeepers Robert Stoltz and Hugh Maginnis, Craig Costanzo, Tim Hagerty and Tommy Tormey.

Andover Sting 1 - Marblehead Vikings 3

Marblehead played very aggressively in the first half and were able to take a commanding 3-0 lead. The Sting came back in the second half determined to deny the shutout and did so when Craig Costanzo kicked the ball into the net on a fine pass from Jeff Leonard. Superior goaltending by Robert Stoltz denied the competition's attempts to increase their margin of victory. BOW: Tommy and Tony Ciolfi.

Andover Titans 0 - Saugus Hawks 3

With only nine players on hand, the Titans found it difficult to overcome the challenge of a full complement of Saugus Hawks, who pressed the attack throughout the contest. Excellent defensive tactics and outstanding goalkeeping by Ames Prentiss and A.J. Boucher minimized the Hawks' scoring punch, holding them to a 3-0 victory. BOW: Jeff Goodman and Joseph DiFraia.

Andover Raiders 2 - Topsfield Breakers 5

Andover pressed the attack in the first half and held a 2-1 lead at the halfway mark with goals by A.J. Boutin who scored on a direct kick setup by Doug Rogers, and Peter Caruso with assists going to Mark Angelos and Brad Reghitto. Topsfield quickly tied it up in the second half and added three more with the gusting winds in their favor to win 5-2. BOW: David Hobbs, Chris Adams and Jason Tucker for some fine goaltending.

Andover Sharks 4 - Danvers Chargers 4

The Sharks, in a great come-back effort, won a split decision in their game with the Danvers Chargers. Danvers dominated the first half of play and scored three goals to take a commanding lead. Early in the second half, Dave Miles put Andover on the board when he scored direct. Within minutes Danvers upped their lead to 4-1. The Sharks pressed and narrowed the gap when Mike Faraci and Mickey Schallop tallied. With time running out Schallop booted in one more, making it a hard fought tie contest. BOW: Steve Busceme and Bill Koromhas.

Andover Clippers 2 - Andover Hurricanes 0

Both teams played shorthanded. The Clippers dominated the contest and made countless excellent attempts to score, all rebuffed by the Hurricanes' goalkeeper, Carolyn Oskar, who played an outstanding game, minimizing the eventual loss for her team. In the closing minutes of play, Tracy Lee and Mary Beth Griffin penetrated the defense and scored two quick goals, to give the Clippers a 2-0 victory. Eva Derba assisted on Lee's tally. BOW: Eva Derba and Pilar Caballero (Clippers) and Lisa Sanchez and Allison Burke (Hurricanes).

Andover Marauders 1 - Saugus Tornado 0

The Marauders scored what proved to be the winning goal in the first half when Beth Cronin made a fine shot on net on a pass from Ann Larsen. Saugus made some good attempts to score the equalizer but keeps Liza DiClemente and Beth Cronin blocked all shots to retain the victory for Andover. BOW: Holly Shanahan and Larsen.

Dan Finneran of North Andover, a senior, was among members of the Williams College Hockey Team receiving honors at the annual awards banquet Friday night.

Finneran returned to the ice from complicated knee surgery to earn the Most Improved Player Award and the Team Spirit Award.

He rebounded as a senior to score four goals and added two assists to earn the team spirit award and recognition as the most improved player. He scored the winning goal against Westfield State in his final game for Williams.

Head Hockey Coach Bill McCormick said, "Dan's outstanding play and attitude in the face of adversity was amazing. He showed incredible determination and self-confidence."

Dan is a 1980 graduate of Brooks School, North Andover where he captained the football and hockey teams. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Finneran of Heath Road, North Andover.

Andover Panthers 3 - Marblehead Eagles 2

Marblehead scored early in the game and added one more midway through the first half. The Panthers made it 2-1 five minutes later when Kelley Hajj put them on the board following a scramble in front of the net. Marisa Murtagh scored the equalizer off a pass from Sara Horton early in the second half and Hajj won the victory for the Panthers when she beat the goalie to the ball from her left wing position. BOW: Teri Babibe.

Hamilton-Wenham Soccer Balls 4

Hamilton-Wenham held a 2-0 lead at the end of the first half. Early in the second, Matt Murphy put Andover on the scoreboard when he scored on a pass from John Adams. Hamilton-Wenham responded with one more and Andover upped its total when Adams tallied on a pass from Henning Ohlenbusch. The competition continued to press and in the closing moments of play, penetrated the defense one more time to win a 4-2 victory. BOW: Eric McDowell and Andy Lascher.

Andover United 1 - Boxford United 3

Boxford pressed the attack in the first half and scored two goals to take the lead. Barry Tucker put Andover on the scoreboard when he completed a penalty kick. The second half saw both teams trying to up their totals with Boxford ultimately succeeding to win 3-1. BOW: David Doyle and Chris Nelson.

Under 19 Division

Andover Rowdies 2 - Georgetown Strikers 2

With only ten players on hand, Andover dominated much of the contest and held a 2-0 lead at the end of the first half with goals by Sara Michelle Sapuppo and Kathy Murphy. Murphy and Joanne Martin assisted. Georgetown's defense rejected all further attempts to score and their forward line scored two quick goals in the last 15 minutes of the game to make it a hard-fought 2-2 split decision. BOW: Entire Rowdies lineup for a great team effort.

Support

rant together last September, one member announced that it was the first time she had been to a restaurant in two years. "She never had anybody to go with before — she didn't feel comfortable with her married friends," Linda explains. "It was amazing. Something we all take for granted, eating in a restaurant, had been denied to her for two years. Now she is one of our most active members, and very busy."

Many members find that Young Widows and Widowers helps them break through to a more normal social life. "Whenever someone tells me there aren't enough social activities, I always smile inside," she says, smiling now. "Then I know they're doing fine, and that they're capable of going out on their own."

The group is an "extremely supportive" one, she says. "Everyone gets very excited when someone makes a stride — buys a house, buys a car, gets a job, goes out on a date. Everyone applauds, and then they in turn are inspired to do well."

"When a new member walks in, the others can see how far they've come — and then they desperately want to help that new person get to the point where they are. And when a new member sees the others, it gives them some optimism that they can get there, too." Almost everyone in the group has formed a close friendship with at least one other member, Linda adds.

Linda can see each member drawing strength and comfort from the group; she watches them change over the weeks and months. "One woman came to her first meeting when she had been widowed three weeks, a very numb stage. She just sat and listened, and I told her she was very brave for coming. Three months later, she chaired our Christmas party. The change was enormous, and I see it constantly."

One widower told the group he was so haunted by images of his wife's painful death by cancer that he could no longer remember one happy moment he had shared with her. Then he began describing how he met his wife, their courtship, their marriage. "And someone said quietly, 'You just did it. You just remembered,'" Linda recalls. "He looked up and said 'thank you' with a great sense of relief."

Today that man is "a very faithful member" who has started socializing again, she adds. "And he thought he never would in his whole life."

In a letter describing what the group has meant to her, a widow who before joining hadn't left her house for six months writes that it lifted her "from the depths of loneliness, pain and despair," helped her to no longer feel alone, to make friends and work out her problems.

A widower who felt he was "floating in mid-air, with no purpose left in life" when he joined now finds at every meeting "friendship and caring, people who will listen and who care so much." Another widower who felt his life "come to a crashing halt" when his wife died writes that joining the group "turned things around for me" after months of "floundering," and sent his life "in a major positive direction."

Linda's "biggest goal" is to expand Young Widows and Widowers; she hopes to add daytime meetings to the current evening sessions, and to start groups all over the state. She has applied for a grant that would help her expand the non-profit corporation and help cover her expenses. Members are charged $2.50 for each meeting or $25 to attend as often as they like for a year; the first meeting is free.)

In recent weeks she has been joined by another Andover volunteer, Sheila Barry of Cabot Road. A wife and mother of four, Sheila is a social worker with a background in clinical counseling, and she will help Linda lead discussions and expand the group. "She offers a different perspective," Linda says. "We complement each other very well."

Linda is "very grateful for the opportunity" the group has given her: "It's done as much for me as anyone else in the group — I've got a whole new interest and a career again. I'm a very feelings-oriented person, and it's very important to me to be of assistance to other people. My husband — who has been extremely supportive — has noticed a big change in me. He tells me I seem much happier."

The group has changed the way she looks at her own life as well. "I don't take anything for granted any more. We've doubled our life insurance and drawn up a will. And I don't get upset any more if my husband leaves his clothes on the floor — it doesn't matter. It used to matter. I don't take being married for granted any more."

Working with the group, Linda says, "makes me feel very fortunate — and that makes me want to help. I have worked as a social worker for ten years, and I've never met a more wonderful group of people, people who like each other so much. They are very accepting. One man wrote in a letter about the group that its members share "a certain bond that can't be felt with anyone else."

She remembers a meeting when one member looked around the room and said, "There isn't one person who isn't a widow or widower who understands what it's like except for Linda." When she describes that moment, Linda Feinberg radiates a very quiet, very real pride.

Dependability to Eliminate the Hard Work From Yard Work

Film Feature For Historians

"The Story of A Patriot" is the title of the movie to be shown at the members' meeting of the Andover Historical Society Thursday at 8 p.m.

"The Story of A Patriot" introduces the historic events and basic ideas of freedom forged in Williamsburg during the crucial period when colonists faced submitting to taxation without representation, resisting British pressure, meeting force with force and choosing revolution. The town of Williamsburg—small then and small now—was the capital of the Virginia colony during the decades leading up to the American revolution. It was the political headquarters of a group of Virginians whose names are still familiar: George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Patrick Henry, George Wythe and many others.

Following the annual meeting and election of officers, this program is part of a series offered to members of the Andover Historical Society and their guests. While this local history museum and library offers numerous public programs and services, it nevertheless relies heavily upon the financial and volunteer support of its membership. Membership dues are applied directly toward the general operating budget of the Andover Historical Society. In return, members receive the satisfaction of supporting and institution dedicated to local service. In addition, they receive a quarterly local history newsletter, invitation to eight special lectures or open house events and notification of all museum or library programs, both public and membership.

All persons interested in local history, antiques, collectibles or support of local services are welcome to join the Andover Historical Society, a non-profit organization open to both members and public. For information on open hours, exhibitions and membership, call the office Monday through Friday between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Career Day Held At High School

Andover High School's foreign language department in cooperation with Project Discovery, recently sponsored a Career Day at the high school.

Nine guest speakers described to students the role that foreign languages play in their respective careers.

Each speaker emphasized that knowing a foreign language can broaden one's career opportunities and that foreign languages are an excellent second language skill to be coupled with the study of such fields as business, law, public relations, or banking.

Guest speakers who appeared at Andover High for the Career Day were: Jose Santos of the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy; Nunci DiMare of the New England Consortium; Kathy Rogers, director of the International Institute; and Peter Wu of the Chinese Friendship Society.

Also: Denis Hamoyman of the First National Bank of Boston; Charlotte LeBlanc of the Quebec Delegation in New England; Ulrike Dorde of the Goethe Institute; Eduardo Crespo of WCCM radio; and Jose Zarier, director of Hispanic Relations Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce.

A close-up look at four of Andover's oldest schools. The names clustered around the school buildings represent the different school districts in Andover.

Schools

The North School, which was most recently the West Andover Community Center, will soon be torn down the teacher sadly explained.

Ranking as the most beautiful school according to Batchelder is the Shawsheen School where the state flower, the Mayflower, is a theme carried throughout the building, which will soon become home to the town's kindergarten classes. Carved owls over doors have mayflowers for eyes and small copies of the flower grace the windows of the building.

While doing the research Batchelder and his students found that some of Andover's old North Andover's old schools were still standing — but weren't filled with desks and chalkboards any longer. Many of the old schools have been converted into homes. In Andover the Holt, Bailey and Osgood Schools are now private homes. And the former Phillips School is now the 1924 House at Phillips Academy, said Batchelder.

A little-known fact the artist discovered while researching the town's schools was that the South Center School was located in what is now the Andover Shop, on South Main Street, "and nobody knows about that," said Batchelder of his find.

In North Andover, where Batchelder is still in the preliminary stages of his research, he found the Pond district school has been converted into a home. And a little red schoolhouse, located on Rt. 125, was later a restaurant by the same name sometime in the 1930's or 40's, said Batchelder. That same site now houses the Flaming Hearth Restaurant.

Another old North Andover school is the Johnson Street building called "Ye Old School House." Batchelder said he thinks the small white structure may have been the original Farnum School or the Kimball School. A plaque on the building says it was built circa 1800. And Batchelder says his research dates the school to 1803. Just down the street, at the foot of Boston Hill, on the corner of Johnson Street and Rt. 114 there is another building that Batchelder's research shows may be the oldest standing school that has not been converted in any way. That may have been the Farnum School, said Batchelder.

The North Andover Veteran's of Foreign Wars post home, on Park Street, was once the Franklin School. When the building was remodeled part of the original school may have been preserved, said Batchelder. He explained that he would be studying North Andover's schools more when the school year is over and he can spend time at the Merrimack Valley Textile museum.

Working with Batchelder on the project in the first group were class of 1982 members Michael Clevesy, John Deeran, Jenna Humber, Marilyn Ingram, Derek Roberts and Lisa Comeoni. Artists from the class of 1983 were Jack Davison, Dana Belpedio, Pat Hurley, Donna Piazza, John Sweeney, Andy Witty, Scott Prussman and Mark Kappelet.

conditions. The developers received their present order from the Andover Commission in August of 1982. Among other things the order calls for a pond to be created on the property to detain and filter out water that may be misplaced in the creation of the building. The present order of conditions will run out this August and must be renewed if work on the site is not complete.

Rokous said he expects construction on the site to take nine months, with opening set for sometime after the first of the year. The new structure, which will not be attached to the ten-year-old Doctors Park structure, will feature a redwood plywood exterior, according to Haverhill architect Butch Rayzok, of Architectural Design Concepts. The nine developers involved in the new project were among the 15 physicians who built Doctor's Park in 1974, said Rokous.

The new center will be affiliated with the Bon Secours Hospital, Rokous said. The Methuen hospital will manage the facility under contract. Physicians will also be hired to staff the center, said Rokous.

Rokous likened the project's walk-in clinic to the Wilmington Regional Health Center. He said people will be able to "come in without an appointment and be seen without having to go to one of the two local hospitals." He also said the center would be convenient for those who couldn't arrange for appointments with their regular physicians.

"This is something Andover needs," said Rokous. "The people of Andover have been forced to go out of town for day surgery. This will keep them in town," he concluded.

Pops Concert

The Merrimack Valley Chorale is rehearsing for their second annual Spring Pops Concert. "The Building of America," to be presented Friday, May 18, at the Chelmsford Lodge of Elks, Littleton Road, Route 110, Chelmsford, at 7:30 p.m. "The Building of America" will trace the important events in our history which have led to America as we know it today, through the music which reflects the milestones which shaped the building of our country. The program will include songs from the time of the composition of the Declaration of Independence to pieces regarding the accomplishments of our modern age.

Ralph Farris, the director, will conduct the choral pieces of the performance. Jan Goodwill, a former member and director of the group "Guys and Dolls," will direct the stage and dramatic segments.

Nancy DuCette Farris will accompany the chorale on the piano. After the performance, the band, "Excursion," will provide music for entertainment and dancing.

mother operated on Main Street, now home to the Christian Science Reading Room, as an introduction to Dalton's contribution to the arts.

A 25-year veteran of the Andover school system where she taught art, Dalton studied at the Museum of Fine Arts School and abroad. Dalton, who lives on Chestnut Street, was famous for her portraits. The works on exhibit Tuesday included a likeness of May V. Robbins, a Red Spring Road resident and friend of the artist who Dalton painted in 1940. There was also a few years, was unable to savor victory at Monday night's annual town meeting. Instead, Richard J. Bowen, former town manager here, was resting after completing his first full day on the job as the new city manager of Long Beach, Long Island, N.Y. Bowen, who left the Andover manager position five years ago, was an advocate of dispensing with the Finance Committee veto power at the October town meeting, and had submitted it for consideration in this year's annual warrant.

Dalton portrait of Robbins' son on display.

Howard Ames Coon, like William Abbott Cheever, was an art teacher at Abbott Academy. He moved to Ballardvale in 1930. The Ballardvale branch library has a watercolor by Coon hanging in the reading room. Haggerty said. Haggerty explained that the Coon self-portrait and rendering of Ballardvale Bridge, on display on Tuesday, were loaned to the society by the artist's son Howard Coon Jr., a friend of Haggerty's family. Coon, who was a World War I veteran, moved to Gloucester in 1948 to paint the landscapes there.

Petitions carrying more than 4,615 signatures for a public hearing for Assistant Superintendent Edward Regan and High School English Department Head William Becker, were to have been presented to the Andover School Committee last night. Regan and Becker were stripped of their respective titles at an April 10 meeting of the school committee, which has refused to publicly give the reasons why.

The Board of Selectmen this week gave an unofficial, preliminary nod to a plan to improve Route 28 as it runs through Andover Center — but they reserved official approval until they try to get back at least some of the 19 Main Street parking spaces that might be lost in the process.

Andover has not as yet submitted a site for possible regional consideration of locating a Resource Recovery Plant, and indications are that the town may not. The Greater Lawrence Solid Waste Committee, studying sites in the area communities has received suggested locations from Methuen, Lawrence and North Andover. Andover has yet to submit a proposed location.

Children's Room News
By Bridget Bennett

The Children's Room is offering to films on Friday, April 27, when "New Friends," "Town Mouse and the Country Mouse," and "Mole is a Friend" will be shown. All preschoolers and their parents are welcome to attend either the 10:30 a.m. or the 2:00 p.m. showing. Our next series of Films-on-Fridays will begin in October.

The first real word in the average dictionary is probably "a." It is the same for a kind of pony. I say.

There's still some time left for all interested young people in grades 1-12 to enter the book review contest which is sponsored by the New England Booksellers Association. Books chosen for review must have been published since 1980 and the library and books stores have entry forms and book suggestions available. The Andover Bookstore or Waldenbooks will accept completed entries until 5 p.m. Monday, April 30.

Art Exhibit

The paintings of well-known Winchester artist Carolyn Latanision will be on display each weekday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. through May 4 at the American Mutual Insurance Companies.

Latanision is best known for her representational watercolor paintings. Her work is recognizable for its vibrant color and its clean, clear imagery.

She has received awards from the Baltimore Watercolor Society, the U.S. Department of Commerce, American Artist Magazine National Competition, Cambridge Art Association, Winchester Art Association, Reading Art Association, Woburn Guild of Artists and Arts Wayland Foundation. Her work has been represented in American Mutual calendars and she has received awards in the North Suburban Art Exhibit as well.

Latanision has taught art in public schools, recreation and hospital settings, adult evening programs and in her studio.

She grew up in Bethlehem, Penna. and in addition to having lived in Düsseldorf, West Germany, she has traveled extensively in Europe, Japan and China.

Concerns On Earth Removal Blocks 15-Lot Subdivision

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Plans for a one-lot subdivision got the go-ahead from the Planning Board this week, but the board indicated that it will not go along with plans for a 15-lot development calling for major earth moving operations.

The planners Tuesday night unanimously approved John Lougee's plan for a one-lot subdivision on a five-acre site off the northerly side of Harold Parker Road. (Planner Andrew Girdwood was absent.)

The subdivision, Lougee Lane, will include only one house on the five-acre site, with access from a ten-foot driveway—a "paper street." On paper, plans for the site call for a 20-foot roadway, but as a condition of the board's approval that road will never be built and will never be presented to the town for acceptance as a public way.

Last week, the planners noted that one-lot subdivisions are not always desirable. But Chairman Margaret Bradshaw Tuesday night said she saw "no harm" in approving Lougee Lane, because it would not change the character of the neighborhood.

The planners, however, said they could not approve definitive plans for Jenkins Estates as they were presented to the board during a public hearing last week. Rosnoe Construction of Burlington has proposed a 15-lot cluster subdivision on a 23-acre site off Jenkins Road, near the North Andover line.

Current plans call for trucking about 9,000 cubic yards of earth material onto the site to fill a former gravel pit and other parts of the site. That material would be trucked across town from the Andover Country Club development, now under construction.

Board members Tuesday night said that was an excessive amount of filling, and "could hardly be considered the best use of the land," Bradshaw said. She added that too many trees would be removed as well, in a plan that amounted to "remaking the earth" at the site.

The consensus of the board was to ask the developer to withdraw the plan: "He needs a whole new approach," planner Paul Curley commented.

Earlier during Tuesday's meeting, the planners discussed preliminary plans for Granli Estates, a 24-lot cluster subdivision proposed for a 35.2-acre site off Bellevue Road, abutting the Osgood Place subdivision.

Engineer Arthur Fosse of Dana F. Perkins Associates, representing developer Timothy "Theodore" Sullivan of Andover, said the lots (including one with frontage on Bellevue) would be clustered around one roadway ending in a cul-de-sac. A pond on the site would be deeded to the town as part of the development's permanent open space.

The chairman said she would prefer to see a plan calling for fewer lots and larger lots; she told Fosse the current plan calls for too many houses on a dead-end street. Nor did she consider owning the pond an asset to the town, predicting that it would become a maintenance headache.

Planner Russ Moran agreed that the plan might not be "the best use of that land."

Staff planner Nancy Jeton added that the Board of Health is concerned about adding that many new houses — on top of other new development in the area — only a quarter-mile from Haggetts Pond, the town's water supply. The cumulative effect of the new development could hurt the groundwater, she explained.

Noting that she saw no advantage to the town in allowing a cluster development on the site, Bradshaw advised Fosse to reconsider the Granli Estate plans.

The planners tabled discussion of another West Andover subdivision until May 8, when more information from town engineer John Avery will be available.

Developer Jim DeCarolis of Deca Corp., Tewksbury, has proposed a three-lot subdivision, called The Brownwoods, for a four-acre site west of Brown Street, near the Tewksbury line. There is an existing house on one of the proposed lots.

The First Child

The Department of Community Services, in conjunction with the Greater Lawrence Psychological Center, will offer a workshop designed to begin where Lamaze classes end. The First Child will be held on Tuesday, May 15, at the high school from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. Register at the D.C.S. office.

Preschool Playground

The D.C.S. Preschool Playground, for children ages 4½ to 6 years old, will be held at Bancroft School Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. Registrations are being accepted at the D.C.S. office in the Town Offices on Bartlett Street.

Tiny Tot Playground

Registrations are being accepted at the D.C.S. office for the Tiny Tot Playground at Bancroft School from June 28-August 17. This program is for three and four-year old children who are toilet trained. There are two sections: one will meet Tuesday-Thursday from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, and one on Monday/Wednesday/Friday from 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

River Road

The chairman also asked the engineer to consider connecting the roadways proposed for River Edge and High Park to form a loop off River Road, instead of two separate cul-de-sacs. Fosse said that would be difficult to accomplish.

And Nat Smith of A.V.I.S. said he would like to see more green space added on the River Edge side, to provide a larger buffer along the river, he suggesting trading off some open space from the High Park side. But the engineer indicated that that, too, would be hard to arrange.

The planners have a May 19 deadline for acting on the River Edge definitive plan, and a June 1 deadline for the High Park preliminary plan.

Salem Museum

The Peabody Museum of Salem, East India Square, Salem, the only museum in the country founded by sea captains, focuses on three major areas: Maritime History, marine paintings, ship models, fishing and whaling memorabilia, nautical tools and instruments of the 18th and 19th centuries; Ethnology, artifacts and tools principally from the South Pacific, the orient and native American cultures as well as decorative arts from the American China Trade; Natural History, the birds, mammals, fish, reptiles, geology and seashore life of New England.

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN RATES DROP?

The housing market has taken a radical change. Forty years ago, the mortgage interest rate was basically level. Buyers went from bank to bank trying to obtain a 1/4% interest advantage. Today, we have to live with huge spikes in interest rates which can fluctuate radically each year.

We all know what happens when interest rates skyrocket. Homes are harder to sell, a larger percentage of homebuyers no longer qualify for mortgages. This in turn creates a backlog of buyers waiting for rates to drop. Economists call it "pent-up" demand.

What happens when banks have a surplus of money to lend and interest rates drop? Millions of prospective buyers suddenly surge into the home-buying market. This creates a growing demand for housing. And with growing demand follows a growing price increase.

Some experts predict that the median price for a new house in 1990 will be over $150,000. If you agree, the time to buy is NOW!

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at THE HOWE AGENCY, 5 Pynchard Ave., Andover. Phone: 475-5100. We're here to help.

WE NEED YOUR HOUSE TO SELL:

There is no agency that provides more professional real estate services than FOSTER & FOSTER.

One of our newest Associates, Maureen Martone Hibbard joined us after working in computers for the last six years. As she put it, she is a "people" person and preferred a career where she could have daily contact with a variety of people. A 25 year resident of North Andover, Maureen attended St. Michael's, North Andover High School, and graduated from Merrimack College in 1976. With her husband Kevin, Maureen lives in North Andover and has enjoyed working with her many friends in the area.

In just six months, Maureen has sold more than $900,000 worth of property and developed a wide following. People find Maureen very comfortable to work with and admire her persistence in uncovering good properties to show. Give her a call you'll soon know why she's one of our best.

Sophisticated and elegant architect designed contemporary concept. Spatial planning on many different levels, with a playroom on the lowest level, and a separate area and level for an office or in-law set-up. to 9.5 percent — an increase that will add twelve percent to the overall project cost, the manager noted.

The manager said he is taking all of these recent developments into consideration as he reviews plans for financing the library project. However, he emphasized, designs for the addition have not changed. The construction schedule also remains unchanged: Mahony still hopes to see construction begin this spring, and completion is targeted for July 1985.

The library project came up for discussion Monday night when Judith Medler, president of the League of Women Voters of Andover, presented the selectmen with a letter expressing the league's concern over the status of the project.

Medler said the league was concerned that the project might be "in jeopardy" because the town had a June 30 deadline for action. But Mahony said there is no June 30

Rent-Teen Program

The Department of Community Services Rent-A-Teen program is heading towards Spring with leaps and bounds. Approximately 60 teens are working within the community doing odd jobs. The program's objective is to give the teens of Andover an opportunity to become involved with the community and to provide them with working experience while serving the needs of citizens who can use some help.

Residents who are trying to get some spring cleaning done and who would like some help may call the department of community services.

deadline connected with the project.

The United States Senate last year closed the tax loophole that allowed municipalities to gain tax credits intended for private developers with sale-and-repurchase projects. However, under legislation known as the "Pickle Bill," Andover is one of a number of communities across the nation with such projects already underway that have been granted an exemption to the new law.

There is no deadline on that exemption, Mahony said, nor will the end of the current fiscal year on June 30 have any impact on the library project.
